THE
OUT...

INTRODUCTION

Over majestic jagged mountains, beyond rolling blue waves, across barren desert vistas and fertile plains, people from every corner of the world knew. For THE WORD IS OUT! Cheering Marauders decided it was time to inform the world of their success and pride, proclaiming this simple yet direct message: MMHS IS JUST TOO MUCH!

With an abundance of organizations, activities and so many opportunities to get involved, no one could complain of boredom. And sports dominated the scene with championship teams. The student population mushroomed to over 3500 students, but instead of a hindrance, the large number of students served as an opportunity to make more friends and to greet more smiling faces.

Volume eleven of The Mirada chronicles the year's many events and serves to keep alive our precious high school memories. Read on and discover for yourself that in all aspects Mira Mesa High was JUST TOO MUCH!

he Word Is Out: Mira Mesa is the place to be! The once quiet community of Mira Mesa continued to grow and expand as hundreds of families flocked here to reap the many benefits this young and thriving community had to offer. MMHS, as new students helped to maintain Mira Mesa's status as the county's most populated high school.

The much-envied location of Mira Mesa offers close proximity to nearly all major attractions, yet is detached enough from the city to escape the undesirables of a metropolitan area. Beaches are just a short drive away, and major shopping centers are within minutes. All the offerings of "America's Finest City," combined with Mira Mesa's prime location led students to proclaim that Mira Mesa High is JUST TOO MUCH!

Spirit...Too Fun

Gaspare Manno shows us how he snakes during a lunchtime pep rally.

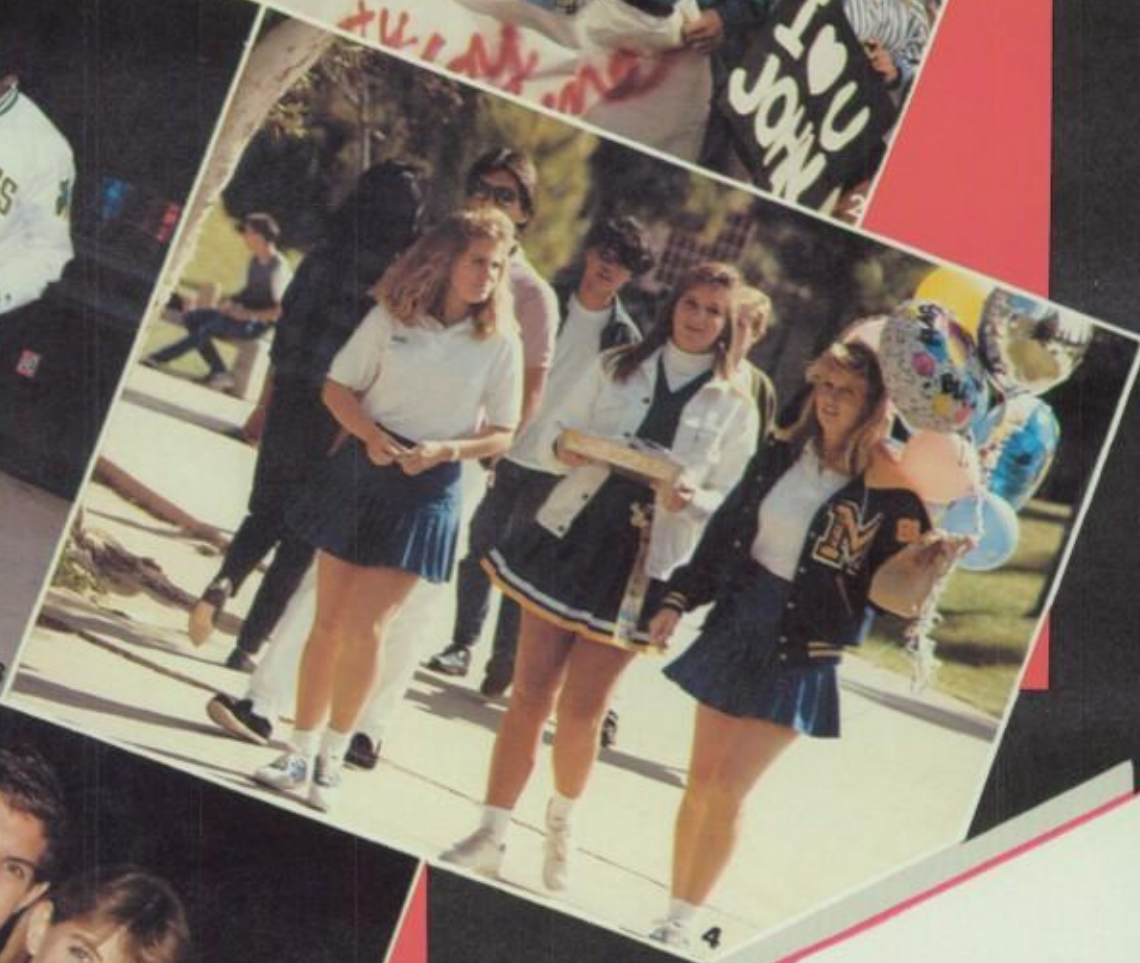

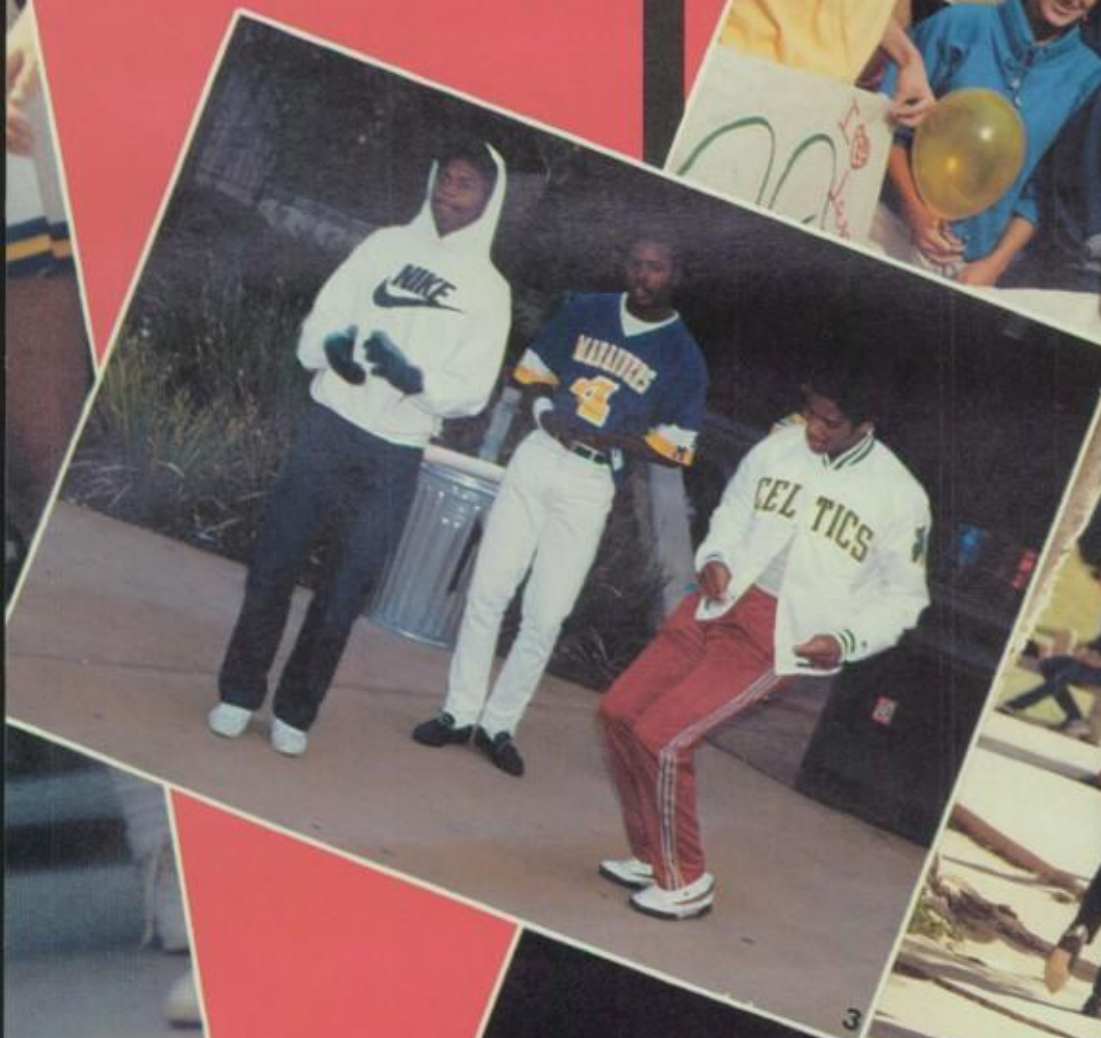

The word was out... Marauders were heading in one direction. Students flocked onto campus to experience the overabundant fun and spirit. It wasn't hard to show off their spirit with many activities around the campus. Football games gave everyone a chance to unleash bottled up emotions and to show off their school pride. Win or lose the Marauders were just too much. All in all, the spirit of MMH exploded and Spirit was just too fun!

2. Ken Nelson, Noelle Santamaria, Eilynn Biscocho, Suzanne Puloipot, Joy Matalavage, Lisa Sheive, and Mandi Smith, show their spirit during the Big Senior Portrait.

3. Essex Burton, Mike Harris, and Kevin Baynard show their stuff during the first tailgate party.

4. Kelli Kammerer and Sharon Hey show true Marauder spirit as they celebrate Traci Anderson's birthday

5. "We're Number One!" exclaims Jamie Silva and Denise Cook.

1. Neil Palmer stops to console Patrick Miles who can only watch his team play due to an injury from the last game.

MUCH

hen it came to student life this year, Marauders found out quickly that MMHS had "Just too much" to offer. Students here kept incredibly busy, participating in athletics, political organizations and other clubs, the band, the newspaper and yearbook staff, or any one of countless available activities. Marauders also found time in busy schedules for special school events, such as football games, dances, pep rallies, and spirit week. The remainder of most students' waking hours were usually devoted to going out with friends, or just bummin' around. And on the rare occasion with nothing exciting to do, there was always the ever present homework crying out to be completed. Throughout the year, Marauders were not ones to pass up a good time, and the many exciting activities available reflect this singleminded dedication to fun.

2. Essex Burton struts to class.

3. Marauder Man, Mark Stogsdill, stands at attention to his Marauders.

4. Carolyn Canon, Trish Ornelias, and Gwen Hughes snuggle close to a happy Johnny Adams.

2. Kaarina Roebuck and Dawn Breda show their spirit on Toga and Caveman day.
3. Amanda Davis congratulates herself on making a perfect shot.
4. During a lunchtime activity Roy Jazmine and Lyle Stewart concentrate hard to bob for an apple.

Once Upon A Time...

in the lush and rolling hills of Mira Mesa, there was an enormous kingdom which lacked spirit. The Black Knight (Mr. V.) held the kingdom in his evil clutches. He kidnapped the Presidents of each class and held them for a special ransom (pennies). The damsels and gents, sorrowful over the evil deed of the Black Knight, sent messages for help. The Marauders heard their plea and they came forth with a tremendous charge, determined to capture the Black Knight, and to restore spirit. They were victorious and the Marauder royalty held a spirit week celebration. Students became royalty according to their class . . . Seniors-Kings and Queens, Juniors-Princes and Princesses, Sophomores-Dukes and Dutchesses, and Freshmen-Counts and Countesses. For five glorious days the royalty dressed in rags and held bags (Scavenger Day), became favorite literary or TV characters, went primitive (cave and toga day), in a daze of Robin Hood and Maid Marian Marauders dressed "merrily", and spirits gathered on Homecoming/Halloween and masqueraded in costumes. The Marauder royalty held up their victory banners to prove an old addage--that, if you believe in fairy tales anything can happen. They all lived happily ever after.

The Homecoming game was an overwhelming success, as the mighty Marauders annihilated the Patrick Henry Patriots 42-7. Both the game and halftime activities sent the crowd into a frenzied state of spirit and enthusiasm.

Essex Burton paved the way for the Marauder victory, rushing a phenomenal 242 yards and scoring three touchdowns.

The Masquerade theme of the dance created a mysterious, romantic atmosphere that was enhanced by the silver and lavender decorations adorning the gym.

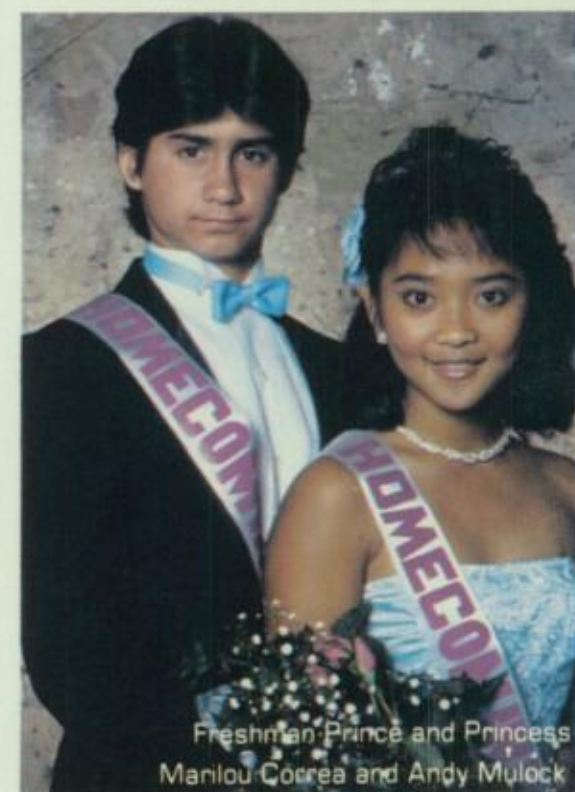

The high point of the evening occurred at the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and King, Tracy Cook and Vinny Lopez. As the pair commenced their spotlight dance, hundreds of white and lavender balloons rained down upon the crowd, who soon returned to their magical night of dancing and revelry.

SUMMER SESSION

Fading aromas of tropical coconut suntan lotions, grains of sand hidden in cracks of shoes, and red peeling noses of sun-kissed faces were reminders to Marauders that while school had started, summer was definitely not a fading memory. Marauders headed near and far to make the most their summer. For beach bums craving the sun, surf and sand, La Jolla Cardiff, and Del Mar were the places to be. Locals searched high and low all over San Diego for things to do. Shopping, movies, parties, and working helped fill up the long hot days. For the more adventurous Marauders went past the shores and traveled. Hawaii, Australia, Mexico, Japan, and Canada were some of the "far away" locations that were explored. Amusement parks and fairs were overcrowded with ongoers. Nearby many trekked to the Del Mar Fair, worked their way on up to Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Magic Mountain and ended up with the "Biggie," the 1986 expo in Canada. Summer of '86 was definitely a period of time to have fun, fun, fun, in the sun and a chance to live up the freedom before returning to school. "Being a senior, it was my last free summer to really let go and have a great time . . ." this expressed Tracy Godzik's summer.

S houts from a seemingly faraway place pierce the Monday morning silence. "Bill! Are you awake? Breakfast is ready!" Silence follows. Finally a muffled groan forms Bill's unintelligible response. As expected, Bill, who never fully awakens from his uncontrollable sleep, misses breakfast and the 7:30 bell. With uncombed hair and glazed eyes, Bill finally staggers into class, not-so-prepared to face another five days of demanding work and boredom, all the while feeling a longing desire for Friday afternoon.

The preceding sequence of events is the result of a successful weekend. The story is real but the names have been changed to protect the innocent. Although weekends are not always as devastating as Bill's, they do provide a time to socialize and have fun. A quickly-created excuse could sometimes serve as a ticket out of the house into a satisfying weekend. Students could always be found at one of the many nearby beaches enjoying themselves at any of several beach activities such as surfing, bodysurfing, volleyball, or just catching rays in the California sun. South of the border, T.J. attracted students each "fin de semana" because of its great potential for adventure and mischief. Some students joined the working class and labored hard to earn money. Those 8-hour shifts on Saturdays didn't leave much room for socializing, but the monetary rewards allowed more freedom to plan future weekends.

room for socializing, but the monetary rewards allowed more freedom to plan future weekends. Shopping was the weekend activity for many fashion-conscious Marauders (especially those who had $). All types of bands held concerts in San Diego, often at the Sports Arena or the SDSU Open Air Ampitheater. Concerts provided a great place to see your favorite bands live and also to "people watch." After a fun and devastating "mini-vacation" Marauders flocked to local restaurants. The more affluent students opted for classy outfits, while the more casual settled for fastfood and Mickey D's or Roberto's. All told, weekends are one of man's greatest inventions and in the immortal words of a Marauder who wishes to be identified only as "T-Bone," a chance to get "outrageous!"

Trick-or-Treat!

A dark fog settled over Mira Mesa High on Halloween as hordes of goblins, witches, and other creatures of the night descended upon the unsuspecting campus. Bloodcurdling screams echoed throughout the school grounds as slimy ghouls snatched up unlucky freshmen, who were never seen again. Mira Mesa High School, once filled with happy Marauders, was now a playground for spiders, spooks, and spectres.

Actually, Halloween this year was quite different than this. The school was filled with cheerful, smiling faces as students and staff alike showed their spirit by displaying costumes. Along with the traditional scary costumes, a variety of other outfits could be seen, ranging anywhere from bellydancers to slices of pizza. Once the sun went down Marauders set out in search of a frightfully good time. Some joined in on the festivities at the Homecoming game, and cheered our team to victory. Others, desiring a spookier All Hallow's Eve, visited one of the Haunted Houses in the area. Costume parties were also a popular destination for students. And there was always the traditional trick-or-treating, which provided both fun and a truly monstrous feast of goodies.

1. Jeff Spangler, Zane Martinez, Randy Bunkley, Mike Runion, and Tony Rooks: Who says we have a gang problem?

6. "All for one, and one for all", exclaims Jackie Pulopot, Noelle Santamaria, and Joy Matalavage... alias the "Three Muskateers."

Stand By Me

7. Alvin Anquillano treats Arlette Ecija like a queen--that's what friends are for!

8. Nae Carini and Alex Flinn display their "true" affection for each other.

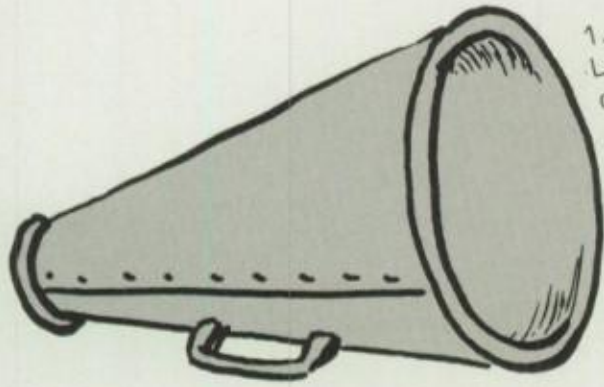

With the large student body at MMHS, everyone had an enormous variety of friends. While making new friends was a goal, old friendships stood the test of time. Many have come through the years as close and intimate friends while others, purely by chance, form lasting relationships on the spur of the moment. When times were tough friends provided shoulders to cry on and someone to talk to. No matter what the situation was, true buddies were always there to lend a helping hand, relay good advice, and just have fun. The bond of love and caring strengthened with time. Marauders said that they could accomplish anything "Just as long as you stand by me."

1. Max Headroom (alias the Letterettes) attack spirit head on.
2. Drum Major Michelle Williams becomes a 'punk' for a day, as she expertly 'snakes' through her routine.

SPIRIT OVERLOAD

We've got spirit, yes we do. We've got spirit . . . how about you?!? Waves of excitement burst out in frenzied motions of activities as Marauders showed their spirit and pride for MMHS sports by attending pep rallies. Cheer, drill, flag team, letterettes and the band helped boost Maraudermania. Pep rallies were the icing on the cake of spirit because it let charges of excitement explode giving everyone the chance to show their pride and spirit. Everyone left charged up for the big game, ready to cheer and root their Marauder team!

7o the background of pounding drums and a screaming sax the energetic lead vocalist leaped madly about the stage, singing to the wildly cheering fans. The song was familiar, and so was the band's look. Was this actually the famous group INXS, come to play to hordes of screaming Marauders? And did the rowdy Beastie Boys, and the smash band of the 70's--The Village People--truly perform at MMHS? No--not really. This was not a wave of superstar musical groups descending on MMHS, but another exciting AIRBAND COMPETITION.

Students turned out in record numbers this year, both to perform in airbands as well as to watch, making the event a smashing success. For over a week Marauders were treated to several airbands each lunch period, bands that were judged by ASB members from other schools. Nine winners were chosen to advance to the finals. The semi-finalists turned out to be Leslie Gore, the Beastie Boys, the B-52's, Janet Jackson, The Four Tops and The Go-Go's. According to one students, "They were the only reason I came to school then."

Levi 501's and denim jackets hit the scene at MMHS. Marauders found a way of expressing themselves, not only with words but with their choice of clothing. With the tremendously large student body on campus, it was important to stand out from the crowd.

A new fashion was lassoed: Boots, fringed tops, and prairie shirts. Beach wear hit the shore with tee shirts-with-sweats, and flojos-with-socks. Leather jackets expressed tough personalities. Sweaters--no longer just for warmth, came in every color and design to bring out everyone's tastes.

Is it a banana clip? Accessories were the creme-de-la-creme of every outfit. The casual look outweighed any other style. Marauders made sure their clothing was as laid back as possible. Mira Mesa High exhibited fashion day after day, adding to the fun of being in style.

What would you say if I told you that I've always wanted to hold you?" These romantic words were whispered into the ears of friends and lovers at the ASB Ball. This year's Sweetheart Ball was held at the Kona Kai Club on Shelter Island, providing friends and lovers a passionate setting on Moonlight Bay.

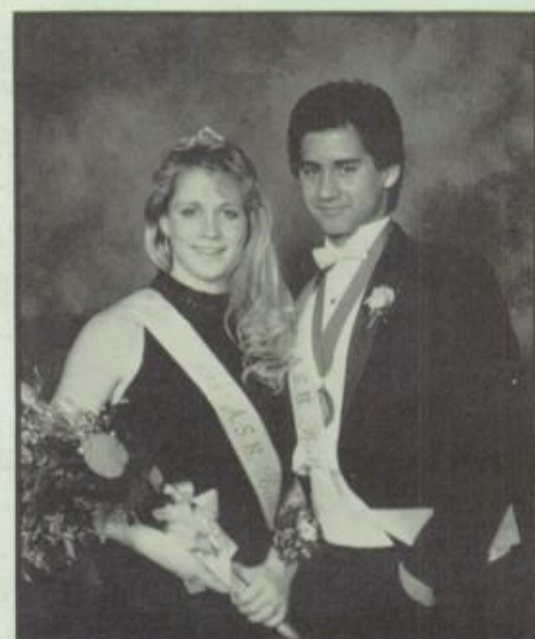

To start off a perfect evening, the gentleman arrived at the lady's door with a limousine or sports' car. After spending countless minutes pinning on corsages and boutonniers and posing for camera happy parents, the couple was whisked away for a romantic dinner at an expensive restaurant. Lobster, steak, and other extravagant entrees proved to be pleasing to the taste buds yet unappealing to the wallet. Finally, the big moment arrived with the grand entrance into the Kona Kai Club. Excitement spread through the air. The most memorable part of the evening was when couples held each other tight and swayed to the lyrics of sentimental songs. This special evening would end on a romantic note as boy and girl said good night. For many, these words would be forever remembered. "And I'll be your friend, and I'll be your lover. We don't have to be one or the other...we can be both to each other."

Chic, hot, live, raging, to-ta-ly cool! These are only a few of the words used to describe the sizzling trends and bumming fashions of the 1986-87 year. From the month of September to the month of June, Marauders put a dent in the fashion industry by creating their own styles with true blue individuality.

The word out this year was QUALITY. Trendsetters arrived on the scene in the latest fashion wear which might have consisted of the original Benetton sweater, colorful Esprit pants, Guess jeans, Gucci handbags, and Swatch watches piled on arms, ankles, and even in hairstyles.

What turns the average person into 'the' fashion statement of the 80's? What else but...fashion accessories. Big bangles, tiny charms, big face watches, western style baubles, clunky chunky gold chains, au faux pearls, and for those who are doing all right and getting good grades, the future's so bright, you've got to wear shades! Oooo la la, look out rubber band, seems that you have been outstretched by the hottest hair accessory around ...the big bow. Made to accentuate any and every outfit, the bows added a touch of style and class to everyone's doo.

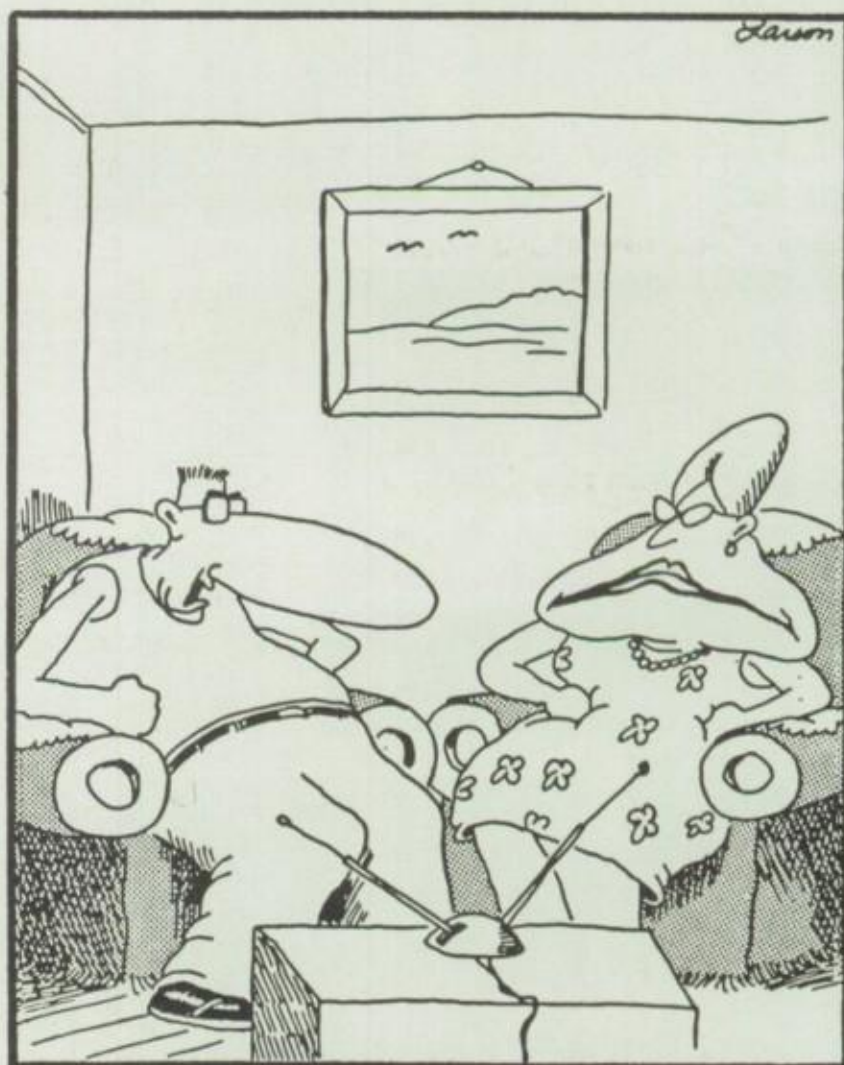

For those who preferred to take a far side point of view, The Far Side, a cartoon by Gary Larsen, pin-pointed the warped sense of humor.

Baby on board, surfer on board, party animal on board, I'm bored, mother-in-law in trunk, and illegal alien in trunk were plastered on car window after car window. These yellow signs proved to be hazardous to the health of drivers and pedestrians because of the attention they received.

Look out cows, leather apparel is on the loose? Hand bags skirts, shoes, pants, jackets, everything has leatherized, despite moos of protest.

Yes you can drink your beer and wear it too. Corona T-shirts, tank tops, and sweatshirts were the latest rage from Mexico. Banned at a few high schools, Marauders took the pleasure of living in them. Speaking of beer...this Spuds for you. It seems that that lady killer, party animal Spuds Mackenzie has been frolicking around in bud commercials. Is he a beast or a ladies man? Well one thing for sure, he is definitely a dog.

"Who could have known 4 years ago that a freak accident in chemistry class would leave me permanently bonded to a wheelchair? I'm not bitter about this price of furniture, and get on I try to ignore it. My family has given me their endless support and understanding for they too have their own handicaps to deal with. My sister is cursed with a barbid dream house stuck to the back of her head while my parents each have toasters on their faces. Other than that, we're totally normal American people."

"My hair is my top priority. I my hair is spiffy, then everything else falls into place. I have a pen pal in Bangladesh. I named my hamster after him, and I'm going to visit him during Spring Break. My dog's name is Bob. We're great friends. We love to go to the beach and play dog games and roast marshmallows. Bob always burns his. I like mine golden brown on the outside and soft and gooey on the inside. My car is my best friend. I call him Skippy. When I'm feeling down and depressed, Skippy's always there, comforting me and giving me that extra push to get through the day."

TOUGH

Who do you turn to when you want advice, knowledge, or a beef and bean burrito? The staff at Mira Mesa High School spent many hours during and after school perfecting the campus academically and physically. Under the direction of Principal Jim Vlassis, the administrative staff made sure that everything ran smoothly and efficiently by setting excellent examples of leadership.

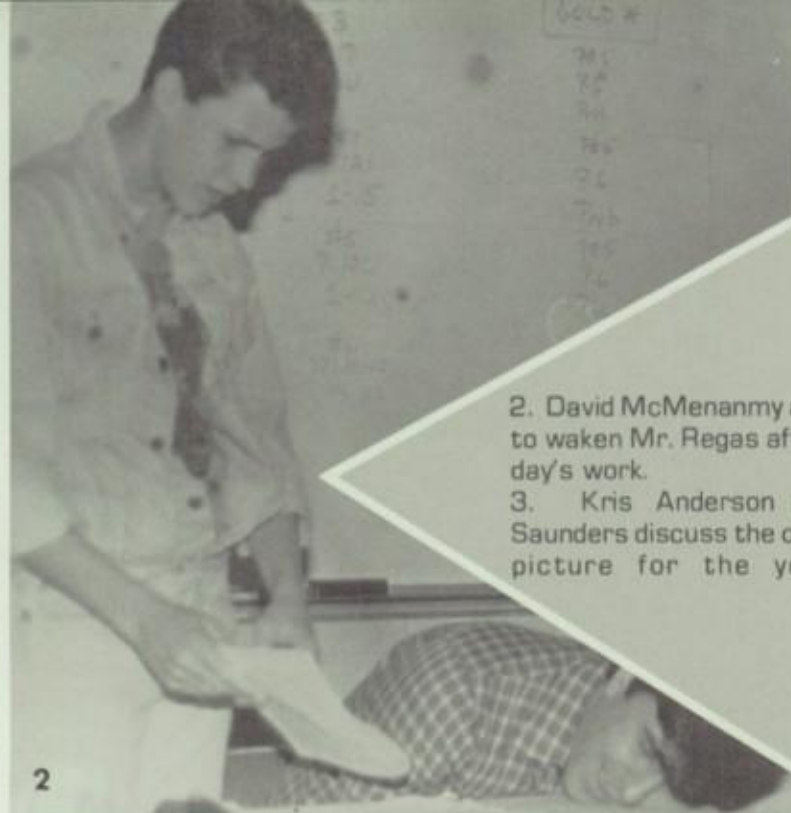

Who do you turn to if you need a schedule changed? Any problem, big or small, was efficiently handled by the counseling staff. Marauders were not only taught the ABC's and 1,2,3's, but many teachers advised and supported extra-curricular activities.

Who should you turn to if your locker is broken into? the fearless security team kept the campus in order by discouraging tardies and trancies, student misconduct, and other problems.

Do you know how many grains of sand it takes to make up the shores of Waikiki, or what kind of a platypus eats? The librarians helped find the answers to these and many other questions.

Are you hungry? Preparing delicious cuisine pleasing to the Marauder palate was definitely a challenge. The cafeteria crew kept things cooking with an array of delicious dishes.

Why is the campus so attractive? The custodial and gardening crews kept the campus of MMHS it beautiful best with their hard work.

5. Mr. Vlassis tries to soothe his inflamed thumb after accidentally slamming it into the refrigerator door.
6. Attendance clerk Valerie Clem smiles happily knowing that it is she who runs the school, not Mr. Vlassis.
7. Mrs. Cora Brown asks, "Is there anything else you would like me to do?"

With gracefulness and enthusiasm, Mr. Jim Vlassis flawlessly led the students and faculty to yet another memorable year. As principal, he claims that he "Is responsible for everything, and does everything." However, the general feeling is that this is an overstatement and although Mr. Vlassis plays an important role, the complex drama of the school administration requires the efforts of many people.

Four vice-principals performed a wide variety of jobs. Incumbent VP's Barbara Wells, Otis Funches, and Gus Bolden, along with newcomer John Miranda, were responsible for evaluating teachers' performance as well as acting as a liason between department heads and the administration.

A dedicated group of nine counselors shared the responsibility of guiding students through high school. As always, they helped students get into college, or get a diploma, or get a clue about life.

Leader of the Pack

his is the land of confusion. A land filled with immense student demands, conflicts with schedules, and enormous amounts of paper work. Handling this was no ordinary job for ordinary people. These hectic tasks were amazingly conquered by the super counseling staff of of MMHS, consisting of head counselor Cindy Snidecor, eight other counselors, a district counselor, career counselor, registrar, secretary, guidance clerk, and a guidance aide. Together they assisted Marauders with academic and career decisions, and personal and social problems. They provided information on colleges and universities, trade/vocational schools, financial aid, and scholarships. The staff also assisted teachers to balance and solve discipline problems. They communicated with parents about school, and they worked with the administration regarding student placement. Even with the over populated student body here on campus, the counselors managed to give personal attention to each and everyone. Only the best would do here at MMHS and the super counseling staff definitely fit the mold!

Anglais, Ingles

Aeiou and sometimes y? Conjunction junction, what's your function? Lolly, Lolly, Lolly get your adverbs here! According to Dale Thomas, the English Department strived to prepare students with the reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills needed to function in society as productive and happy individuals. One goal of the department was to enhance the understanding and interpretation of literature, professionally and recreationally, for future enjoyment. There were twenty different courses offered by the English department which ranged from ESL (English As A Second Language) and reading classes to college AP (Advanced Placement) courses. A total of 116 different and stimulating sections of English were taught by twenty-eight English teachers.

Can you say "How now brown cow" in Spanish, French, German, Russian or in Zulu? All of these languages (except for Zulu) were offered to grades 9-12 at MMHS. These courses taught students how to communicate in a foreign language. Each student was required to actively participate by communicating orally and learning to read and write in the language. Fourth year Spanish students went to Oaxaca, Mexico, to live with Mexican families for a week in order to practice their Spanish skills.

It All Adds Up

Wearing his "two-all-beef-patties-special-sauce-lettuce-cheese-pickles-onions-on-a-sesame-seed-bun" T-shirt, Bill enters McDonald's and begins to fill out a job application. Scanning the form, he finds it to be predictably simple and straight forward. But suddenly, he encounters an unusual question. He shudders. His mind races. The question stares back at him, with a large white space looming below:

DISCUSS THE DEFINITE INTEGRAL OF THE HYPERBOLIC ARC SECANT OF  $3x - 17\ln x - \cos x$  AS  $x$  VARIES FROM  $-6$  TO  $\frac{5}{8}$ .

Suddenly, Bill experiences vivid memories of those happy, bygone-days of math class, and after a moment's hesitation, scribbles the answer on his application. In the end, Bill received the coveted job, beginning a long, successful career in the fast-food industry.

Without the important skills learned from his math class, Bill today would probably be a transient wandering downtown. Mira Mesa's math department feels a great inner satisfaction. When it hears about students like Bill—students who are able to relate their mathematical abilities to the world around them. The story of Bill is only one example of how math can serve not only as a means of success, but also as a source of hope, inspiration, and joy.

Back To The Future

The robed priest stood atop the majestic pyramid, and slowly lowered the mummified body of the king into his dark tomb. Elsewhere, armored knights engaged in fierce battle within a gloomy Medieval Castle. And at yet another time and place brave pioneers rode in their covered wagons along the winding, dusty Oregon trail. These are but a few of the scenes that could be found within the classrooms of the Social Science Department. Whether it be to ancient Egypt, Europe in the Dark Age, or America's pioneer days, social studies teachers were able to transport students back in time to experience history. Valiently led by Mr. Ted Parent, this hardy band of teachers struggled throughout the year to delve deep into the past with their students, learning all about the long, rich history of mankind. The social studies department, one of the largest in the school, had an incredibly broad range of subjects, and sometimes could be found to satisfy anyones historical curiosity.

The classrooms of the social studies department dealt with not only the past, but the present as well. In Government classes, students learned of the intricate workings of American Democracy, while Political Science courses stressed a comparative approach to the study of foreign governments. The teachers were responsible for the success of the department, as they avoided presenting history as a dry, boring list of names and dates, and instead breathed new life into the subject, creating exciting, realistic and memorable historical tales. Having a good department is essential for a high school. History is perhaps, the most important subject in school, since, according to Robert Durham, "All we can ever know is history."

Weird Science

1. Mr. Holtz offers a refreshing acid facial to Shannon Niespodziany while Ruby Pagaduan turns away from the gruesome act.

2. Mr. Schmidt sacrifices his precious time for cleaning test tubes to help his utterly confused students.

3. Mr. Lux ravenously attacks his lunch of French cuisine--ala formaldehyde.

In the fitful light of the bunsen burner, a strange and eerie group of figures could be seen clustered about a table. Cackling with hideous, insane glee, the group worked feverishly on some unseen, probably diabolical project. Who were these mysterious creatures? Evil experimenters attempting to create strange new monsters? Witches and warlocks summoning terrible creatures of the night? Horrifying alien beasts performing disgusting experiments on earth life forms?--No, it was worse than this. These horrible demented individuals were (gaspl) science teachers testing a new lab to use with their classes.

All over the campus the science teachers, involved in subjects such as chemistry, biology, physics, and physiology, made great progress in their goal of creating a scientifically educated and capable student body.

While the teachers of this department were perhaps not as insane and demented as those in the above paragraph, they were just as excited and energetic in conveying their knowledge of, and love for, science to their pupils. To raise funds for new and improved equipment and lab supplies, as well as field trips, the department successfully conducted candy and poinsettia plant sales. For scientifically oriented students, who wished to pursue their interest outside of the classroom, a number of clubs were available, including the biology and environmental science club. Along with teaching pupils to deal with and relate to test tubes and calculators, science teachers helped students deal with people as well, thus accomplishing their goal of "helping students understand the relationship of science to society."

What do you want to do with your life? Do you have any special interests or skills? To help find the answers to these questions, many students signed up and took the tremendous selection of specialized classes available at MMHS. If you wanted to learn how to drive, act in a major production, type forty words per minute, program a computer disk, or make a book shelf, Mira Mesa High was the place for you. Elective courses helped many students become successful in school by presenting them with courses which not only interested them, but taught them new skills. Marauders received only the best training from the highly experienced instructors in each elective course. Specialized and required courses were mixed and matched on student schedules to help meet graduation requirements. Specialized courses made school a fun and interesting place to attend.

Marauders had a wide variety of courses to select from. Courses in Fine Arts included: Introduction to Art, Commercial Art, Ceramics, Crafts, Drawing and Painting, Fiber Design, Band Chorus, Beginning Guitar, Drama and Stagecraft. Courses in Practical Arts were: Business Law, Typing, Office Training, Business Communications, Shorthand, Accounting, Business Careers, Business Math, Marketing, Clothing and Textiles, Parenting, Consumer Education, Family Studies, Foods and Nutrition, Gourmet and Foreign Foods, Contemporary Housing, Host and Hostess, Child Development Aide, Drafting, Graphic Arts, Electronics, Woodworking, Auto Mechanics, Metal Shop, Drivers Education, Computer Science, Word Processing or Micro-computers, Public Speaking, Interpersonal Communications, Journalism, Video Production, Yearbook, and Student Government.

Marauders! Did you have a bulging stomach, thighs which resembled puckered large curd cottage cheese, flabby arm flaps, or a double chin often used as a pencil holder? For anyone with any, all, or even none of the above characteristics, the PE department came to the rescue. When it came to shaping us up, they were the best in the West!

Physical education teachers like Lynn DePaul, Brad Griffity, Terry Homiston, Dennis Lottermoser, and others worked hard to promote lifetime fitness. They encouraged students to develop basic skills. Students not only increased their muscle tone but also strengthened good social interaction.

Freshmen and sophomores took the required basic physical education courses that included: raquetball, volleyball, tennis, softball, and basketball. Juniors and seniors had the privilege of working out in full semester classes like aerobics and weight training.

Future Refrigerator Perry's, Mary Lou Retton's, and Hulk Hogan's received the chance to shine by participating in Interscholastic Sports held during sixth period and after school.

Get It In Gear

DRIVER'S ED: A class which provided students with tangible evidence of their efforts was the driver's education class. Taught by Don Buechler, Richard Smith, and Jon Talbott, the class "provided students with a knowledge and decision making process that would enable them to make wise and correct decisions in situations that could lead to faulty driving performances." More importantly, it allowed students to obtain their driver's permit, as well as develop psychomotor skills for their road test at age sixteen.

ROP: This year, MMHS provided students with the opportunity to participate in either of two ROP classes: Child Development Aide and Retail Merchandising. Designed to prepare students for an entry level job, ROP Child Development allowed students to become involved in many types of volunteer work. In addition to daily work at preschools, students participated in field trips and volunteered for storytelling at the Mira Mesa Library. A second ROP program, Retail Merchandising, combined on-the-job, unpaid experience with classroom training to prepare students for entry level employment in retailing. Students learned how to operate cash registers in addition to learning basic sales techniques. Many students in each ROP program have jobs in their fields of study before the course's end.

SECURITY: Fighting for truth, justice, striving to ensure law and order, and driving to protect the inalienable rights of all students - these were the goals of grounds supervision teachers' aides. More commonly known as security guards, these able-bodied law enforcers carried out administrative needs such as keeping students in class and keeping order among all students. And when there was nothing to do, security guards happily treated themselves to a leisurely game of walkie-talkie hide and seek.

While the cafeteria staff, the gardeners, and the librarians appeared to have little in common, they are in fact quite alike. All three departments are entrusted with enriching the school, each in its own special way.

To the gardeners was assigned the task of providing Marauders with a beautiful campus. Lush foliage, stately trees, and gently rolling hills of grass were created and maintained by the gardening staff, who in this way contributed to a better Mira Mesa High.

The library staff, headed by Midge Backensto, enriched not the campus surroundings, but instead the minds of both students and faculty. With counter magazines, films, reference books, and novels just waiting to be checked out, the library had something for everyone. All who entered this wondrous palace of knowledge could not help but return more intelligent, whether it was due to reading a scholarly article, experiencing a great work of literature, or merely conversing with the learned and wise library staff.

And yet the very backbone of the school, the driving force behind Mira Mesa High, the thing that kept us going throughout the year, was the CAFETERIA. Its staff prepared and served delicious feasts of nourishing, mostly warm, and very interesting food, to the student body, keeping us healthy, alert, and happy.

1. Mr. Talbott takes a break out of his wrestling schedule to teach a class a few "rules of the road."
2. Mrs. Roseman, part of the library staff, takes time out of her work day to give information to a student.
3. The gardening staff and John Clarke show off their tools of the trade.
4. Mrs. Wheeler checks out a book to a student as Mrs. Roseman looks on.
5. The cafeteria staff consists of: Sharon Aguilar, Grace Sloan, Margie Barrierski, Rosity Tajilla, Miyoko Kosaka, Wuchichen, Cindy Bailey, Brenda Schuffel, Angie Romano, Lorna Underseth, Rita Wold, (cite manager), Jackie Josefson, Anne Reyes, Mary Lou Swelland, Burtha Mendez, and Edie Hernandez.

"Seniors are here to rule the school." Even with the overcrowded population of more than 3,500, Seniors stood out among the crowd. It wasn't hard to tell who the class of '87 was. They approached life with an over abundance of animated spirit. After three years of anticipation and waiting, celebration burst out in a frenzy of excitement and elation. Anxiety filled minds as seniors shook in fear over the unknown zone--their future. Minds were stretched to the limit as students hurried to fill out college applications, sign up for the draft, and plan their lives. Senioritis set in and snoozing in class, day-dreaming, and hypnotic trances diminished studying. By the end of the year seniors snapped out of their daze and began to prepare for the prom and graduation. As Seniors approached adulthood, memories of school, friends, and childhood faded away as visions of maturity and a bright future took over.

2. Tammy Selbrede feels the pressures of being a senior.

LEADING THE WAY

To guide the seniors through a memorable and fun filled senior year was the mission of the senior class council. In order to finance this costly undertaking, the council sponsored many fundraisers, including a computer dating service, a sweatshirt sale, and Santa-grams. But fund-raising was only a small aspect of the immense job undertaken by the class council, which was responsible for organizing senior activities such as the Prom, Grad-Nite, and Graduation ceremonies. Led by President Laura Toller and V.P. Jodi Matthews, the class council did a commendable job at encouraging seniors to get involved, as this proved to be our most spirited year ever. As Commissioner of Correspondence Rich Matthews puts it, "The San Diego Zoo proved to be an excellent place due to it's incredible variety of animal life." What Rich actually intended to say was that the class council was a great place to get involved and help the senior class, all the while having a fun time and meeting new and exciting people.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

It's 1:00 a.m. The wind rustling through the trees is the only sound to be heard. A quarter moon sheds dim light on dark, quiet figures furtively creeping to their destination. The intense beam of light of a passing automobile sends the mysterious people diving for cover. Strange bulges can barely be noticed in the jackets of the dark-clothed figures. After stealthily scaling the chain-link fence which encloses the high security area, the young terrorists armed with mysteriously concealed weapons begin their merciless assault.

Who are these people? Are they Hare Krishnas seeking to liberate their captured brothers in Palestine? Are they Nicaraguan counter-revolutionaries attacking the enemy base camp? No, they are Mira Mesa High School seniors participating in the annual (although illegal) toilet papering ritual the night before the first day of school.

Seniors emptied the shelves of nearby grocery stores in an attempt to out do the efforts of previous classes. Hardly a section of the school was left uncovered, as members of the class of '87 ruthlessly strewn toilet paper in all directions, easily surpassing the accomplishments of seniors of past years. The faculty charged the senior class $250 for the clean up of the "decorations"--a cost well worth the adventure and excitement generated by this annual endeavor.

Diana Dufault, Erin Nakano, Annette Delozier, Heather Cofman, and Bernie Smiley are caught in the act of the senior tradition of toilet papering the campus.

GEMCO SAYS...

"SEE YA!"

"Nay, smile not at my sullen brow; Alas! I cannot smile again." Such were the sentiments of Lord Byron, a former Gemco employee, concerning the shut-down of the popular grocery/department store. A significant number of Mira Mesa Seniors (over one percent) were employed at Gemco, and those who worked in the grocery division were suddenly laid off in October, 1986. Not a single employee escaped the implications of the unexpected closing. Each of the seven Marauders employed in the grocery section enjoyed their work, and a void entered their lives after the shut-down. Affectionately known as "Team Gemco," these employees felt a type of comraderie with each other and the many friends acquired through their endeavors at Gemco. Some students have found other employment, but the general feeling among "Team Gemco" is that employment will never be the same.

Andy Sefkow, Matt Hoerr, Jason Mendez, Tracy Cook, Kim Robertson, Kenny Nelson, and Jon Nations protest the closing of Gemco.

CHOICES

College is very hard. Lots of seniors want to go to one. They have to do hard applications and write lots of stuff about their activities and plans and goals and pets. Most seniors will be happy at colleges in California. They like the beach. The waves are good. Cool guys hang out there. But getting into college is hard. You have to fill out stuff and get grades and do things. But all work and no play makes college kids dull people. And that's a bummer, so college is fun too. One neat thing about college is that you get to wear college sweatshirts everyday. You can impress your friends and family with them. At college, you can make cool friends and do fun things. Lots of kids like that. But if you want to be a shepherd, you can't go. But that's OK. Shepherds are very cool.

SENIOR SPIRIT

Bernie Smiley and Lori Toney display the latest fall fashions by Calvin Klein.

"The day of the bag lady." This is the way Marauders now refer to the fateful day in October when our once proud campus was overrun with hordes of garishly clad scavengers. As a part of Spirit Week, the A.S.B. invited these "bag people" to our school, an invitation that they readily accepted. Ignoring all rules of fashion, these scavengers wore clothing that even Good Will would reject, and created nightmarish combinations of colors, patterns, and fabrics. Although normally fairly well behaved, at lunch the bag ladies embarked on a frenzied school-wide scavenger hunt. They rudely tore various articles of clothing off of students, and at times abducted entire individuals in their mysterious quest for stuff. Overall, it was a traumatic experience for MMHS, as the usually polite and well-dressed student body was invaded by hundreds of bums. The event, which the A.S.B. states "was meant to be fun," unfortunately caused severe emotional scars for several wimpy freshman, who are now unable to pass by any K-Mart store without screaming in mindless terror.

Showing us the true meaning of love and courage, Kraig Stahl and Leah Hartness exchanged their vows and were wed in a beautiful, romantic ceremony in Cardiff, CA on August 23, 1986. Those friends and family attending the wedding were amazed, as well as deeply touched, by the spirit of friendship and love shared by this happy couple. We wish them the best of luck for the future, and hope that they enjoy many wonderful years together.

THAT WAS THEN THIS IS NOW

Friendship stood the test of time, as six years of happiness, elation, pain, and sorrow was endured with togetherness by the Seniors. From the beginning of the 7th grade year to the end of Senior year, friendships proved to be forever lasting. While many experienced the physical changes of growth, change in tastes, and growing pains, special friendships grew stronger with emotional changes. Friends were relied on for advice to help with problems dealing with parental conflicts, school struggles, and personal conflict. As seniors matured, the everlasting bond between close friends also matured. Fun and exciting times were made more enjoyable with special pals. Even with the many changes (going from junior high to MMHS, breaking up with boyfriends/girlfriends, preparing for college, preparing for prom and experiencing the grand splendor of graduation) close friendships that were built throughout the years and strengthened by time proved to last through the six years of junior high and high school and would never weaken but only endure forever.

Meet Dick and Jane. They are juniors. Dick and Jane are having fun, fun, fun. It's neat being sixteen. See Dick drive a car, he got his license yesterday. Can you say yesterday? Dick is happy because he can take Jane cruising and he can drive down to TJ. Don't get caught speeding Dick!

Look! Look! See Jane. Jane is taking the PSAT. Jane is sweating. (I hope her Lady Speedstick is working.) Jane must practice for the SAT. Jane is scared, Jane knows that if she does not do well, all hopes for college acceptance go bye-bye. (Better load up on the underarm deoderant.)

Being a junior is wild, wild, wild. Everyone knows that the Class of 88 is the wildest class at MMHS. Dick and Jane are proud to be juniors. Only one more year and then...Senioritis!

What ever happened to Spot? Spot lives a dogs life at home. He can't go to school. Oh no! Poor Spot.

How do you create the recipe of spirit? First you mix together a ton of dedication, hard work, and motivation. Add a pinch of leadership with advisor Mrs. Carol Sobek, co-advisor Mrs. Midge Backensto, and class president, Steve Simmons. Top it off with a handful of talented and involved juniors who blend together to get things cooking. To get things flaming, place a cup or two of hot ideas and a burning desire to succeed. Mix it all together in a pan until well blended and then you will have the Class of '88 class council. With graduation only two years away, the junior class spent many hours planning activities and fundraisers. The major goal for the school year was to get as many juniors involved as possible. Some other goals consisted of raising as much money as possible for their senior year and to obtain many spirit points in lunchtime competitions against other classes. The juniors held fundraisers, sponsored dances, and sold class-related items to strengthen and enrich their class flow. With the overwhelming success of the past two years, this wasn't hard to do. The Class of '88 strove to prove that they were just too wild!

THIS IS THE YEAR THAT COUNTS

Paul Gelvezon frantically studies his SAT book in preparation of the big test.

The junior year is of crucial importance for those seeking a college education after high school. They are pressured to get good grades and score high on the PSAT and SAT. Many colleges consider only the grades received in 10th and 11th grades, so colleges encourage juniors to put extra effort into their classes. The PSAT, basically a preview of the SAT, is taken by juniors in October. The PSAT can be instrumental in the acquisition of scholarships, especially the National Merit Scholarships. The allimportant SAT, a grueling, mentally-devastating test of a student's innate intelligence is confronted by juniors late in the school year. Of decisive importance, the SAT marked the end of a year of preparation for college. The academic performance of juniors could either pave the road to success, or sidetrack them to a dismal life of emptiness and despair.

"WILL I EVER BE 18!"

For some juniors who were sixteen it meant having to be carded for dance places, R-rated movies, and swinging single bars. This was a very traumatizing and embarrassing experience. But some juniors managed to get in to these heavily guarded places. Is it because they have cute dimples, extra cash, or a M-16? . . . Of course not! Some juniors use phony identification cards to get themselves through the door. How does one go about obtaining these phony I.D. cards? Do they borrow them from older brothers, sisters, and friends? Or do they pay five dollars and send away for them through the mail? Do some juniors take drastic measures by encountering fat, bald men with putrid garlic breath in seedy and broken down shacks? Sometimes they wondered if it was worth the time and trouble to obtain the phony I.D.

Yes, I'm a junior and I'm cool. I have a car and I can do anything, go anywhere, and never come home if I don't want to. My parents don't even recognize me now that I've got this car. It's a clunker, but that's ok. I have so much freedom! Where should I go next? I think maybe I'll drive to, uhh... China. Yeah, that's the ticket! Oh no! My tank is almost empty! There's the Mickey Mouse Gas Station up ahead. It's a good thing I get 300 miles per gallon. I wonder if I'll even go to school again. No, I'll just keep driving around, taking advantage of my newfound freedom and privacy. No one knows what I do with my car, except, uh... Morgan Fairchild, yeah. That's it. I feel like I'm in a cartoon-like world of makebelieve, with big animals and pink polka-dotted roads. Someday I'll go home though, because I have to feed my dog.

Michelle LaMay demonstrates the traditional style of cheating.

Bill has a history test today. Bill did not study. But Bill has a plan. Not just any plan, but the king of all plans. Fixed under his desk is an alpha-numeric keypad which is connected via infrared radio waves to his computer at home, which is simultaneously accessing the data files of ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA and relaying information to a microscopic speaker in Bill's ear. Bill saunters into class and confidently begins the test. The first few questions are incredibly easy for Bill, who receives the answers through his system as planned. But intense static interference from a solar flare unexpectedly fill the airwaves and sends thousands of volts into Bill's ear, turning Bill into a mindless, quivering vegetable. Bill has failed the test, but more tragically, he has failed in life. His terrible story should serve as a valuable lesson to all students. "If you're going to cheat, do it right. Your life depends on it."

"Guess What!"

Whats the latest gossip? Leilani Anquillano and Mary Lucena take part in the junior ritual of "note-reading".

With a surprisingly realistic bird call Bill alerted Tom during his English class. Seconds later a small paper projectile sailed through the air, hitting Tom squarely on the ear. Unfolding the note, Tom decoded Bill's hastily scribbled words and discovered the cryptic message: "The falcon has landed; the fat man walks alone." Tom was startled. He quickly sent his own covert message to Bill which read, "There's a dead salmon frozen in the waterfall." Bill realized they must act quickly. He fired another note to Tom, but it was unexpectedly spotted by the teacher, who made a leaping attempt to extract the note from Tom's clenched fist. Heroically, Bill reached for a nearby airtrack, and, holding it like a samurai warrior, delivered a crushing blow to the teacher's forearm. As the class stared in awe, Bill and Tom fled through an open window only to encounter a group of awaiting security guards, who mercilessly beat the two boys and exiled them to a remote arctic island. Notes are a risky method of communication, and Bill and Tom had paid the price. Unless you're Bill or Tom, notes usually hold less dramatic results and actually provide a very convenient form of keeping in touch with friends. During class notes were secretly passed around when an important message just couldn't wait until after class. In other classes, notes provided a quick way to relay info to friends, or just to say "Have a nice day!"

COOL

Hello, we are here today to talk to the marvelous tenth graders, otherwise known as the "sophomores". Yes darling, these wonderful fifteen year old human beings do exist. Eager to put their embarrassing experiences of their freshmen year behind them, the sophomore class tackled their second year of high school with a new drive on life. This was the last year to kick back and relax before the anxiety of harder school work. The P.S.A.T. and S.A.T. test preparation for college entrance would punch them in the nose during their junior and senior years. While many sophomores "bummed" off rides for their transportation, a majority went through the strange ritual of obtaining driver's permits, and torturing parents and DMV employees by displaying their newly acquired road skills. In all, the sophomore year proved to be the entrance to the marvelous life, of life in the "fast" lane.

5. Kelly Murphy is shocked by the essay she has just written.

My Turn At The Wheel

It's a sort of transitional stage between two very different situations. Freshmen are used to having mom chauffeur them around, while upperclassmen can drive themselves. So those men in dark suits who make the rules decided that kids needed a few months where they could drive their parents around and show them what they learned in driver's ed. Hence the invention of the driver's permit. Students are free to drive with a permit, provided that a parent is attentively monitoring the actions of the new driver. While the experience may be fun for the new driver, it is often mentally traumatic for the parent. Cardiac arrests are common among the parents of permit owners, so many have installed EKGs in the passenger seat. After enduring around ten hours of this "instruction", the parent (now undergoing psychological therapy) hears the child's plea for a license, and, after analyzing his own pitiful condition, succumbs and allows the child to take the driving test, which he fails anyway. At this point, the parent (now experiencing suicidal tendencies) gives up all hope. Of course, in the end, the child does receive his license and is able to drive his parents to and from the Institution for Mental Disorders.

"Dad, can you tell me where the key goes?" asked Mike Castiglione. "I think I forgot!" replies his nervous father.

Once upon a time the realm of Sophomoreland was a dark and dismal place, for it was infested by the dreadful beasts of "poverty" and "indifference". Luckily, a band of brave, hardy class of 89 councilmen, led by Sir Michael Aklufi, Lord of Sophomoreland, decided to rid the land of these horrible monsters. Using their devastating weapons of T-shirt, pen, carnation, and hotdog sales, these champions of Sophomoreland did battle with bloodthirsty, ravenous beasts. After a long, hard war, the council was victorious, and the creatures were slain. Sophomoreland, freed forever from the beasts of "poverty" and "indifference", became once more a lovely, joyous place, full of cheerful voices and smiling faces.

Private Property

Sophomores generally place an overwhelming importance on their bedrooms and consider it one of their prized possessions. Bedrooms have a multitude of uses. For example, some students enjoy sleeping in them. Others use bedrooms to seek refuge from parents, while still others utilize their bedrooms as a place where they can sort out their worries and frustrations. Bedrooms are also a source of privacy and individuality, since to decorate one's own bedroom is to reveal one's interests and highlight one's creativity. Personally, I feel that bedrooms add a great deal to civilized life. I would not be able to function without the love, support, and guidance of my own bedroom. Without those comfy Snoopy sheets, and He-man bedcovers I would not be half the man that I am now. Bedrooms are my life.

Soph.

Sophomore days were filled to the brim with fundraisers, dances, pep rallies, sporting events, club meetings, and other school activities. For many tenth graders, this was the first time that they turned off "He-Man" and "The Jetsons" and turned on to the "SPIRIT" channel.

This was the year of many firsts, due to the fact that last year (when the sophs were mere freshmen), participation in activities was practically nil. Now with the ongoing antics of the upperclassmen and the various soph. leaders, the Class of '89 jumped onto the roller coaster of fun. Never before has a class at MMHS been so anxious to let off steam (ohh, hot!).

"Buy your sweatshirt here!" The Class of '89 went all out to raise cash for their senior year. There were hot dog, candy, tee-shirt, sweat shirt, and Marauder pen sales. Nothing was held back! Sophomores gave the word "SPIRIT" new meaning as they did what came naturally to them...HAD FUN!

Pearly Whites

*H*ill I'm a sophomore, notice anything different about me? NO MORE BRACES! No more brushing after every meal (not that I did, but don't tell my mom that). No more worrying about embarrassing traces of food stuck under a wire. No more monthly visits to my orthodontist, Dr. Ouch (he has bad breath) who always tightens my braces a little too much. And most importantly, NO MORE TEASING! Now I can eat anything legally: popcorn, gum, caramel, ice, and apples. I can smile, knowing that I won't blind anyone with my metallic grin. The only thing I have to get used to is how slimy and naked my teeth feel. How come I didn't notice this two and a half years ago?

Now living with the retainer, which feels like hardened peanut butter. I'm collecting a full day's worth of spit. Well, I gotta go floss. (Brought to you by a senior, still wearing braces, who likes to B.S.)

"See, we're BRACES-FREE!", smile sophomores Karla Carey, Jeff Rudiger, and Tracy Fry.

Sweet 16

... and never been kissed? Becoming sixteen is a major turning point in anyone's life. For sophomores, the sixteenth year means an end to being an innocent and naive fifteen year old and a step toward the pleasures of the freedom experienced in adulthood. After grueling ordeals at the DMV, sweaty palms were dried and readied for grasping a driver's license, and sophomores no longer had to beg parents and friends for rides to school, the beach, and hot spots. Begging for a car followed, and once the automobile was purchased, sixteen year olds soon disappeared.

Being sixteen opened up doors to employment. Sophomores were no longer satisfied with weekly allowances or baby-sitting jobs. Many searched "help wanted" ads and combed through shopping centers, looking for minimum wage jobs at fast food places. Some sixteen year olds were finally allowed to go out on real dates with members of the opposite sex, but unfortunately, parents were still strict with curfews.

Loaded with balloons, roses, and a birthday cake, Michele Richardson festively beams at finally reaching "sweet 16"!

FRESH

It was a dark and gloomy first day of school. Suddenly, the clouds parted and a brilliant light shone down from the heavens. Amidst a chorus of joyous voices from the sky the Class of 1990, the "Class of a New Decade", entered the school. The other students crowded happily around the freshmen, eager to welcome and befriend these wonderful new people.

Actually, the freshmen began school in a more normal way. It was an exciting time, a time of new faces and new beginnings, but there were no "heavenly" lights or voices. As ninth graders soon found out, being a "freshman" was not an easy job. One had to face the indifference and contempt of upperclassmen, all the while attempting to adjust to the rigors of high school life, and more importantly, to "fit in". It was truly a giant step from junior high to high school, but most freshmen are glad that they took it, and look forward to enjoying many fun, memorable years at MMHS.

2. Phillip Matthews tries his throwing power on Freshmen President Roy Jazmin.

3. Having a bad day, Richard Stratton waits for his next class to begin.

4. Roy Jazmin, freshmen class president, is the bulls-eye in the Spirit Week contest.

5. Freshman president Roy Jazmin and Christine Guinez get ready to begin the race during Spirit Week.

Class Of The New Decade

Faced with the monstrous task of raising enough money for class activities, (and eventually the Senior Prom etc...) the Freshmen are often too overcome with terror to accomplish anything. Not so with the Class of 1990 class council! Led by president Roy Jazmin and advisor Shirley Duchock, the Freshmen council sponsored a number of financially successful fundraisers, including candy bar, sucker, and sweatshirt sales, as well as "Goodbye Grams". This year's freshman class quickly established themselves as a short but spirited group of people, ready to work hard to make their high school years as fun and memorable as possible

Class Council of 1990 consists of R. Villapondo, R. Flores, G. Anamos, V. Meintjes, J. Grey, M. Flores, N. Tran, T. Tsui, K. Guinez, K. Nusco, E. Rubia, E. Borromeo, B. LeVeau, R. Jazmin, M. Correa, and B. Tran.

Bike, mom, donkey, car. Which of the aforementioned types of transportation does not belong to a freshman? Take some time to think about it. (Pretend you hear the music from "Jeopardy") Times up! That's right--you guessed it! The car. (If you guessed donkey, that's incorrect, because donkeys are available to freshmen in certain third-world countries.) Freshmen do not drive cars. They never have. They never will. Consider the following scenario. You're driving to school in a near downpour. Windshield wipers at full speed are nearly useless as the rain pelts your windshield. The windows fog up, so you crack your window open. a flurry of wild rain streams into your car. Quickly you roll it back up. Off in the distance you can barely distinguish a moving figure amidst the dark rainfall. You recognize a bicycle, which leads you to conclude that it is a freshman. He has no parents, no friends, no adequate means of transportation. Only a bicycle. He is the embodiment of Pee-Wee Herman. He is only one of the many freshmen who rely on the bicycle for transportation. You may notice him pedaling to school in the early morning rain. He has a brown stripe of mud running up his back. He is wet. He is alone. He is very unhappy.

Get off the phone! Please help my child! She is a freshman at Mira Mesa High School who is addicted to the telephone. It has gotten so bad that AT&T has become her best friend. At first, she did push button once in a while, but Pacific Bell introduced cordless phones with radios, a three-way talking system, and an answering machine. She hasn't been normal since. When she gets home from school, she abandons her homework and heads for the talking machine. I can no longer sleep at night knowing that she's still on the phone gossiping about clothes, friends, and heaven forbid ... boys! Please help this freshman before it's too late! "Might as well face it, she's addicted to phones."

My name is Andy, and I'm a peanut butter sandwich. My task today is to introduce you fine freshmen to the wonderful world of lunches. Face it, as freshmen, there are only few lunch options open to you. There is Taco Bell. Or, for thrill-seekers, the school "cafeteria" offers a menu created entirely out of "natures wonderfood"--the soy-bean. The only alternative is the traditional favorite, the brownbag. Picture yourself the proud owner of a magnificent bag lunch. Imagine the smooth, rich texture of the peanut butter in your sandwich, or its refreshing, delicately fruity jelly. Picture the crisp, golden goodness of your potato chips, or the luscious, juicy flesh of your shiny apple. All of this, and much, much more will be yours if you bring your lunch to school.

Gigantic metallic balloons sporting Garfield logos, ooey gooey chocolaty chip cookies, fudgy yummy cakes with fourteen candles, fragrant bouquets of flowers, huggable teddy bears, and Mickey Mouse party hats. Birthdays were celebrated in grand splendor at Mira Mesa High. The campus resembled one gigantic party with tremendous B-day decor. For freshmen, birthdays were extra special because they had finally graduated from being pesky adolescent preteens, to mature and sophisticated teenagers. Being fourteen meant that childhood was far behind, and adulthood was at reach. For many of the frosh going out in style meant celebrating with pizzazz and a growing hunger for maturity. Unfortunately birthdays were only once a year but plans were already being dreamed up for the big "15". Who knows maybe the Goodyear Blimp can be rented out?

Dramatic Changes Affect Schools

On Feb. 10, the Board of Education unanimously voted for the Long Range Facilities Master Plan.

This plan will be in effect by next year. Jerabek Elementary will go year-round and a new temporary 7th grade school on Parkdale will begin operations. In 1988 Walker, Ericson and Mason elementaries will be on the year-round schedule. Scripps Ranch High School will be under construction by 1991 and a permanent junior high designated for Parkdale should be completed. Barbra Peluso, PTSA President, commented, "I'm in favor of the board's decision. It's been a long time in coming. It should have happened several years ago."

Also, the San Diego Unified School District is seeking state legislation that would expand its authority to set up year-round school programs to cope with a predicted increase in enrollment of 45,000 students, or 40 percent, in the next 13 years.

"all the good teachers are leaving"

"Seventh graders!...over there??" asked residents along the east side of Parkdale as they viewed the site of Challenger Junior High destined to open in September, '87.

Year-round???? was the question of the day in December when Ed Center head honchos decided that Mira Mesa High School is just too crowded. "It will go year-round in 1988," they answered. John Miranda was transferred from Bell Junior High to become vice-principal in charge of computer processing and program development.

"What?...No freshmen?" became the question at mid-year as Ed Center head honchos decided that the ninth graders will be located elsewhere. The MARQUEE answered our questions in its lead story of March 27th. Both students and staff expressed their opinions.

Besides losing the ninth graders, 35 teachers were declared in excess. Although the actual loss will not be known until school opens in September 1987, the questions of who will actually be assigned elsewhere and what courses will be dropped was on everyone's mind. Disheartened, many staff persons felt helpless to change the course of events. Long time friendships among colleagues would become something to cherish in memory.

Site seniority is not the name of the game where staff assignments are made on the basis of teacher-student ratios. DISTRICT SENIORITY is the name of the game in capital letters. So the most disheartened staff persons were probably those who had opened the school in September 1976 when it was called Mira Mesa Junior-Senior High School. Included in the list are six of the original faculty and staff persons: Ed Allen, Richard Clem, Lynn De Paul, Larry Elliot, Christy McMahon, and Ann Norman. VAYO CON DIOS, NUESTROS MAESTROS O COMPANEROS.

Attention all you Marauder fans! Where do you go when you want to find excitement, fun, determination, strength, spirit, and victory? Join the crowd of Marauder athletes who showed their pizzazz in various sports. The fall, winter, and spring sports were successful in league play. Many sports teams such as Varsity Football, Girls Tennis, JV and Varsity Field Hockey proved to be just too awesome when it came to winning. Many teams reached the CIF playoffs and won their division in the Eastern League. The athletes put all their strength into their sport and many weren't afraid to give it everything they had.

Both fans and players alike were proud of the hot athletic teams. Massive Trophies piled up as MMHS participated in sport after sport. With the overpopulation on campus, coaches did not have any problems finding capable and dazzling athletes for every sport from A to Z. Other high schools in San Diego County would soon learn about the drive of Marauders. Marauder teams weren't afraid to show off their blue and gold and prove that they were just too tough!

1. Essex Burton breaks loose for six against University City.

2. The Mira Mesa Football team consist of: T. Bourus, F. Saria, M. Harris, A. Falkquay, R. Slavey, J. Shew, J. Orsinelli, R. Baird, E. Allison, B. Nelson, J. Snyder, A. Royster, P. Solomon, J. Souza, J. Morales, S. Neal, R. Hanson, E. Burton, N. Staples, R. Crowley, R. Williams, J. Bray, P. Miles, M. Reyes, J. Josett, T. Cumo, C. Logan, O. Marion, J. Cleavinger, R. Autus, M. Evaristo, J. Jeanmarie, S. Stokes, K. Baynard, S. Owens, J. Bell, and B. Clem.

Now boys and girls say victory! VICTORY! With skill, strength, and stamina, the Marauder varsity football team sizzled on and off the field. They were determined to show everyone that they were just too hot to handle. The season started off slow with two losses, but with growing desire to push it to the limit, victories became the name of the game. Marauders faced tough schools winning game after game. The two hottest games of the season were Homecoming, where the Marauders slaughtered Henry 42-7, and the crucial 14-0 win over Pt. Loma, which clinched the Eastern League Championship for MMHS. Winning was easy with the offense and defense working together in sync. Eddie Allison started off slowly as quarterback, but with the help of offensive players like Essex Burton, Ray Rowe, and Craig Logan, he showed the team what he was really made of. The defense stomped all over rival offenses with no mercy. With key defensive players like Andre Falkquay, Mike Reyes, and Patrick Miles, who said, "The defense are wild animals!" The Marauders finished with 4-1 in the Eastern League winning seven out of ten games. HOT was the word for the Marauder varsity team to prove to everyone that they were just too "awesome!"

3. Quarterback, Ed Allison turns to hand off the ball.
4. Running around, trying for a touchdown is Essex Burton.

Branching Out

1. Butch Hanson and Bill Clem stop the opposing team from gaining yardage.

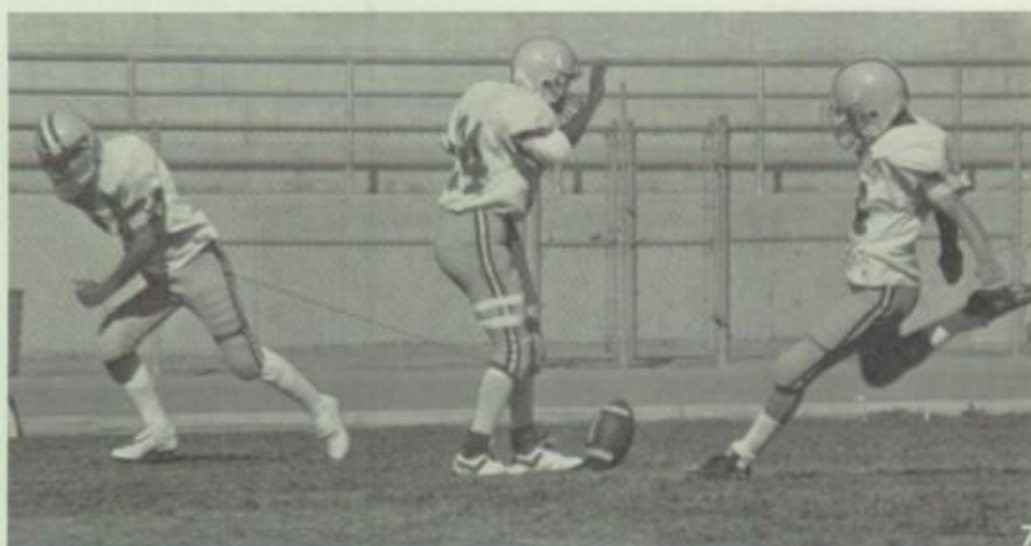

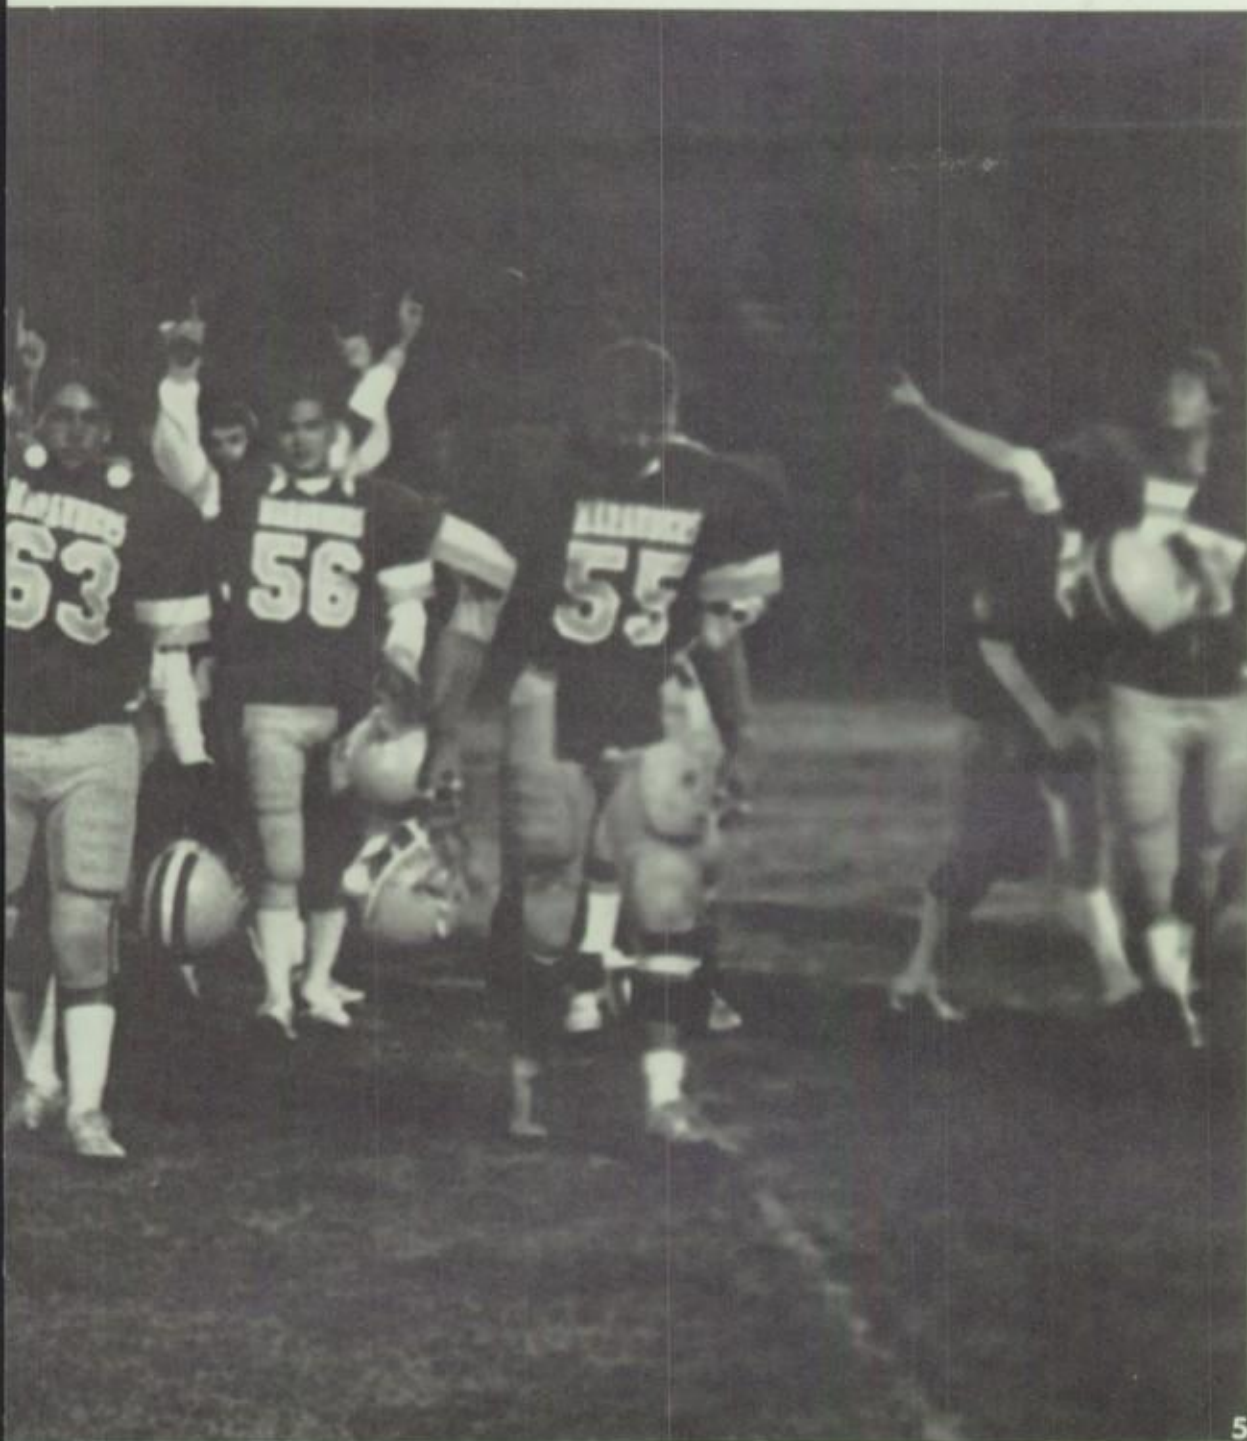

2. Sean Owen, Kevin Baynard, Joe Bray and Kevin Hedges show off their mental intelligence by gazing nonchalantly at the game.

3. Eddie Allison goes head-on as he attempts to break through a couple of University City linemen.

4. Punt returner, Tom Bourus, eludes University City's defenders.

5. After a winning victory, Kevin Baynard, Eddie Allison, Jimmy Souza, Mike Hayward, Otto Marion and Craig Logan show that Mira Mesa's football team is #1.

6. Jagade Snyder, bullform at fullback.

7. Rich Crowley and Essex Burton run down the field as Richard Baird kicks off.

1. Ready for another race, Jeff Fanno, Greg Cavallero, Rudy Flores, Lee Henderson, Joey Mistreta, Rob Reiter, Jason Moorhead, Sean Ponaltog, Rich Ross, Luke Logan, Jacob Ralston, and Josh Green line up on the starting line.

2. Grant Moseley and Cesar Duque concentrate on their consistent speed in another race.

4. Brock Treptow leads the way against the runners from Serra and Point Loma.

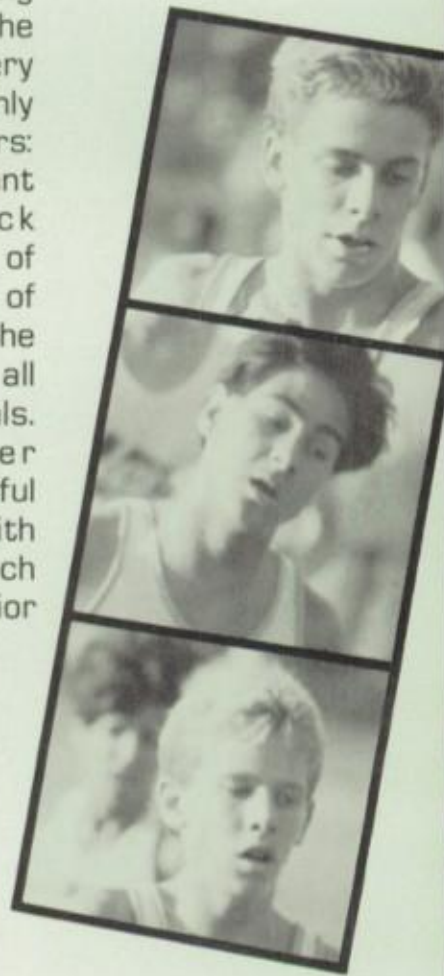

5. Brock Treptow slowly passes an opposing runner from Point Loma.

6. Grant Moseley and Steve Bramson are once again in the lead.

7. Jeff Fanno and John Farrel show the observers what running is all about.

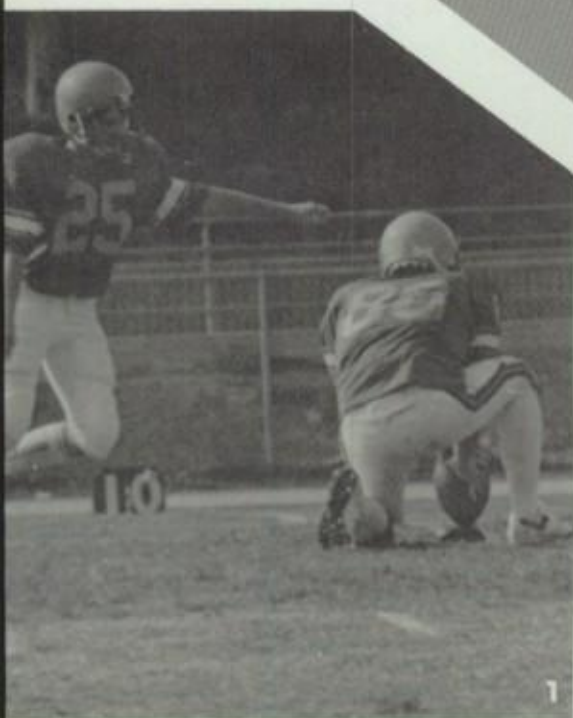

Puff, puff, inhale, right, left, right, left, I want to stop, I have to keep going. I can't stop, only 37 miles to go, inhale, exhale, got a cramp, I have to stop, I can't stop, lod, plod, incredible pain, huff, puff, almost done, left, right, finally done. This, Marauders, is the essence of cross-country.

Why do they run? The whole thing seems so pointless--at the end of a run, they always end up where they began, and basically have gone nowhere. The substance of that enigmatic drive can only be defined in the minds of the fifty members of the Boys' Cross Country team. Coached by Mr. Dennis Lottermoser, the team finished second in their league behind CIF winner Serra, prompting senior Steve Bramson to declare, "We have nothing to be ashamed of." The team this year was very young, possessing only three returning seniors: Steve Bramson, Grant Moseley, and Brock Treptow. As a result of grueling daily road runs of as much as ten miles, the team placed well in all three major invitationals. Coach Lottermoser anticipates a successful season next year, with promising prospects such as Cesar Duke and Junior Vic Moharir.

A Rebuilding Year

In reference to the JV Football Team's subpar season Coach Blevins stated, "To coin an old phrase, 'it was a rebuilding year.'" This year's team possessed more freshmen than ever before, while their opponents were primarily juniors and sophomores. The largely inexperienced players had a difficult time competing against these teams, but as the year progressed, the team showed dramatic improvement. Despite their 2-8 record, several individual standouts and future stars were created. Freshman quarterback Jerry Rowlett demonstrated great ability, foreshadowing great years in the future. Mark Matzen and Tim Crone led a "large, talented offensive line." Freshman tailback Don Elder also showed signs of big things to come. While the 1986 season yielded only two victories, Coach Blevins is convinced that the team holds great promise, and will provide a solid foundation for future Mira Mesa teams.

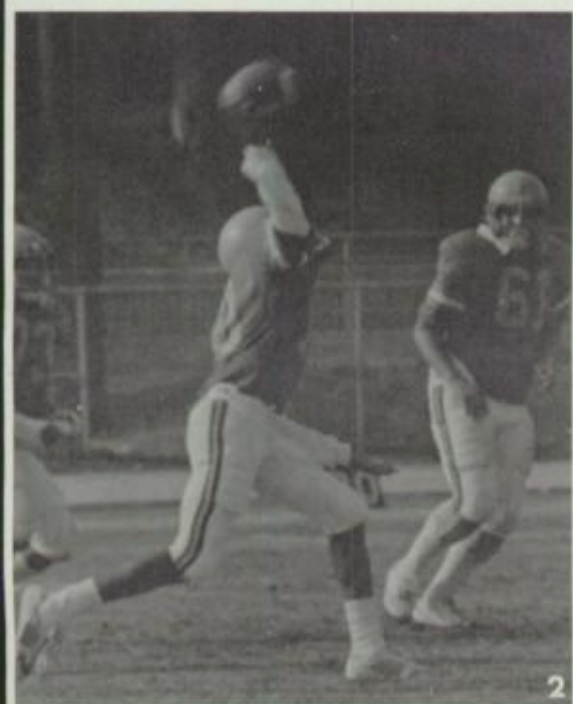

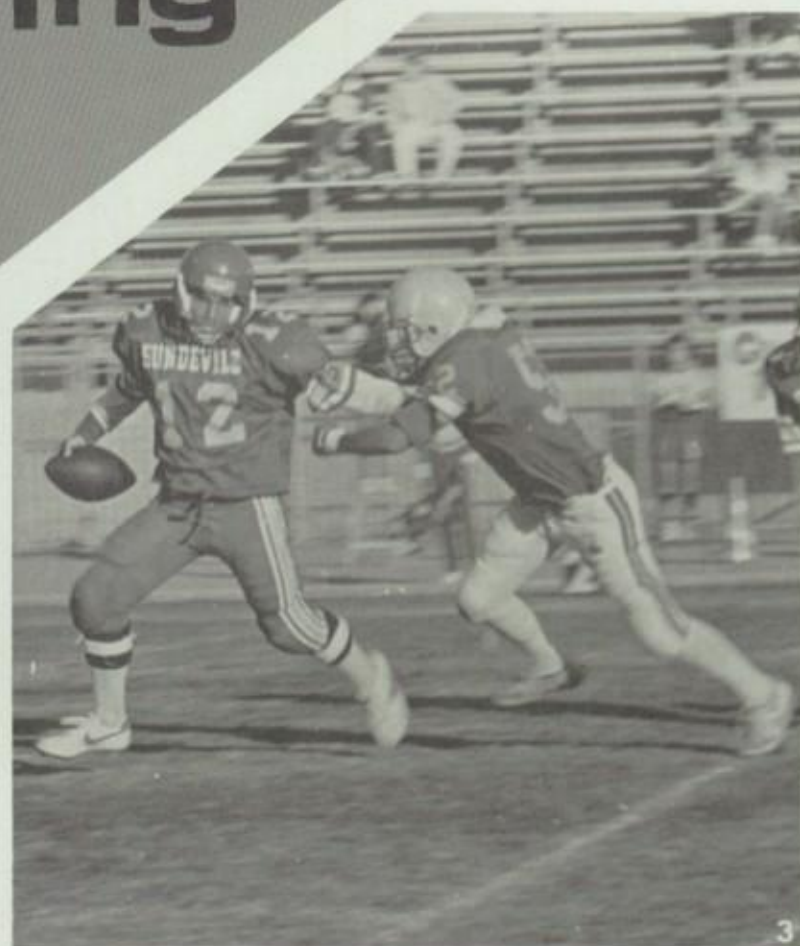

1. Kicker Pat Abare attempts the extra point while Travis Arnold holds.

2. Quarterback Jerry Rowlett hurls the football as lineman Randall Crone looks on.

3. Patrick Barcelon sacks this feeble QB for a big loss.

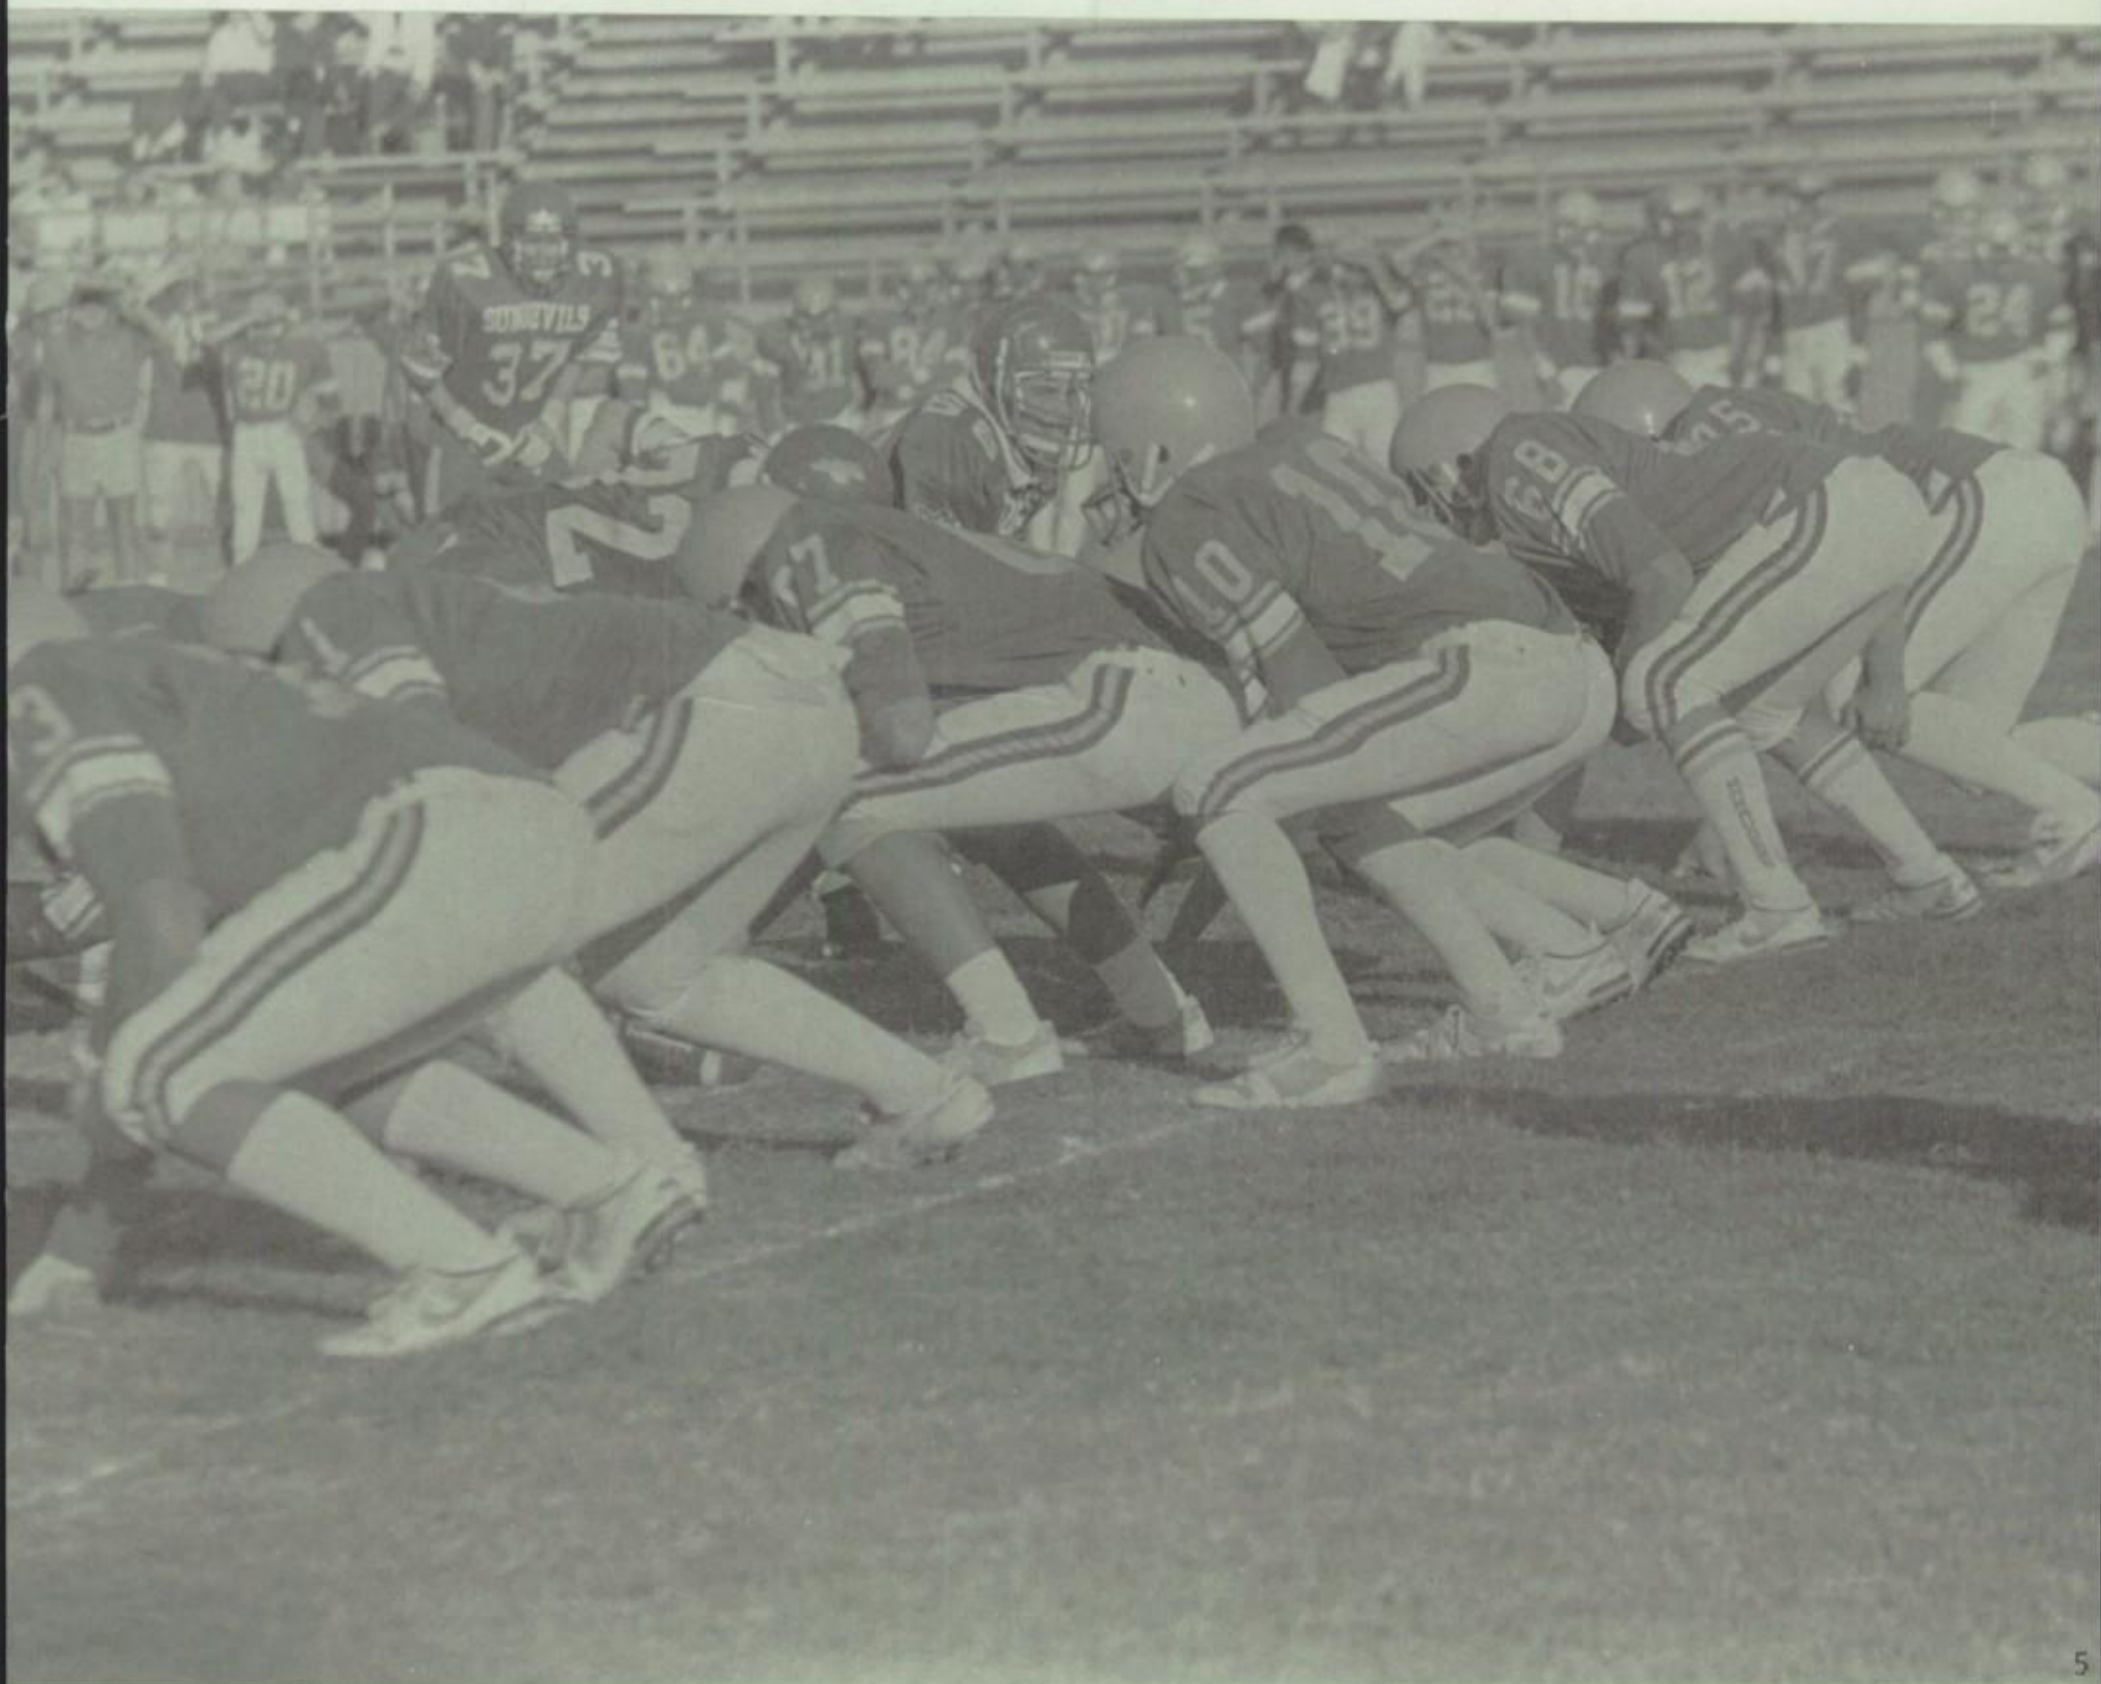

4. Runningback Don Elder sweeps right for a beneficial gain of yardage.

5. The Marauder front line awaits the snap of the football.

Lowest score wins

Led by such superb runners as Denise McFayden, Lauri Borck, Karen Horowitz, and Nikki Zimmerman, the Girls' Cross Country team once again proved to be one of the strongest in the League.

These outstanding athletes, coached by Dr. Terry Gregor Homiston, put in long hours of training to be the best they could possibly be. The work definitely payed off, as the girls' were undefeated in League, except for a close loss to rival Point Loma.

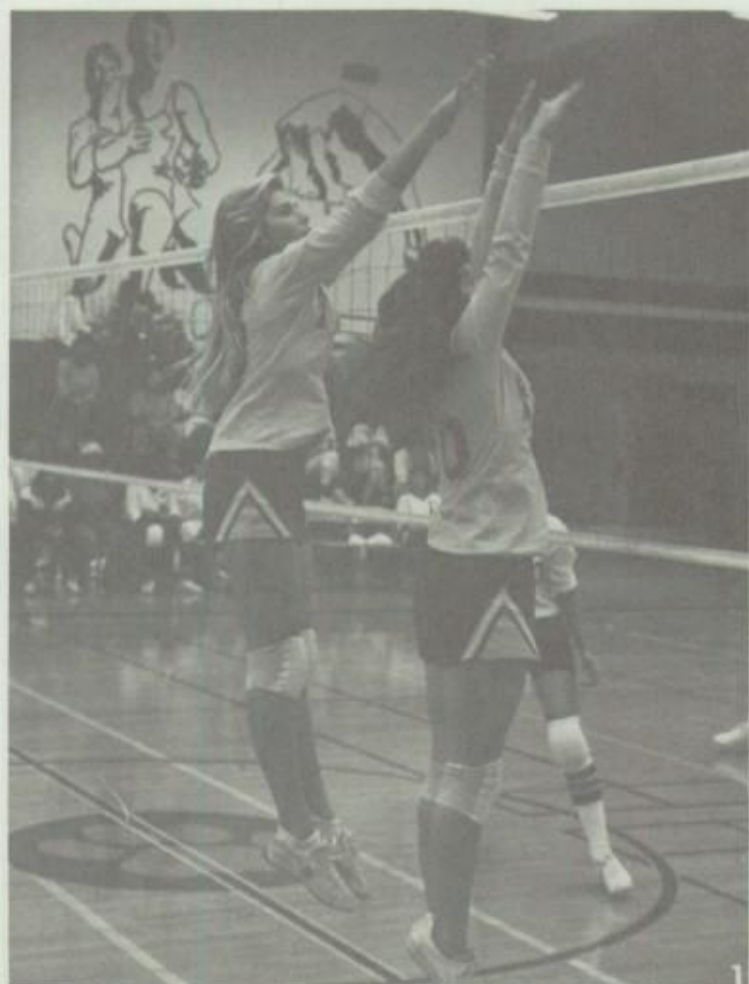

Unfortunately, the team did not take this year's Eastern League Championship. But next year, with a combination of strong returning talents, including this year's outstanding freshman, Debbie Fanno, and the hard work and dedication characteristic of the team, the Marauder girls should once again be Eastern League Champs!

5. "You can forget about running another mile, Mrs. Homiston," replies Valerie Kolk.

6. Joan Evangelista displays her winning running style during a tiring workout on the lower field.

1. Akiko Rataj and Heather Berner jump up in an attempt to block the ball from the other team's spike.

2. Debbie Minihane gets ready to give a powerful serve to the opposing team.

3. Candalee Zerr, Jocelyn Poblette, Carrie Parks, Wendy Owens, Malia Harrington and Leonora Lambert take a breather before going onto the court again.

This year's JV Girl's Volleyball Team showed dramatic improvement over last year's squad, rising to fourth place in the Eastern League. Coach Carol Stowe skillfully drilled the girls in all aspects of the game, creating a unified team which played well together. According to Coach Stowe, the 14-member team was the tallest and most aggressive in many years. Featuring the talent of sophomores Heather Berner, Kiko Rataj, Debbie Minihane, and Grace Bolano, the team worked its way to a respectable 9-6 overall record. Says Coach Stowe of the team, "They dominated the net with their blocking and hitting. If anything did get through, the fisty, quick back row was there to cover. We will have a lot of depth and experience returning next year."

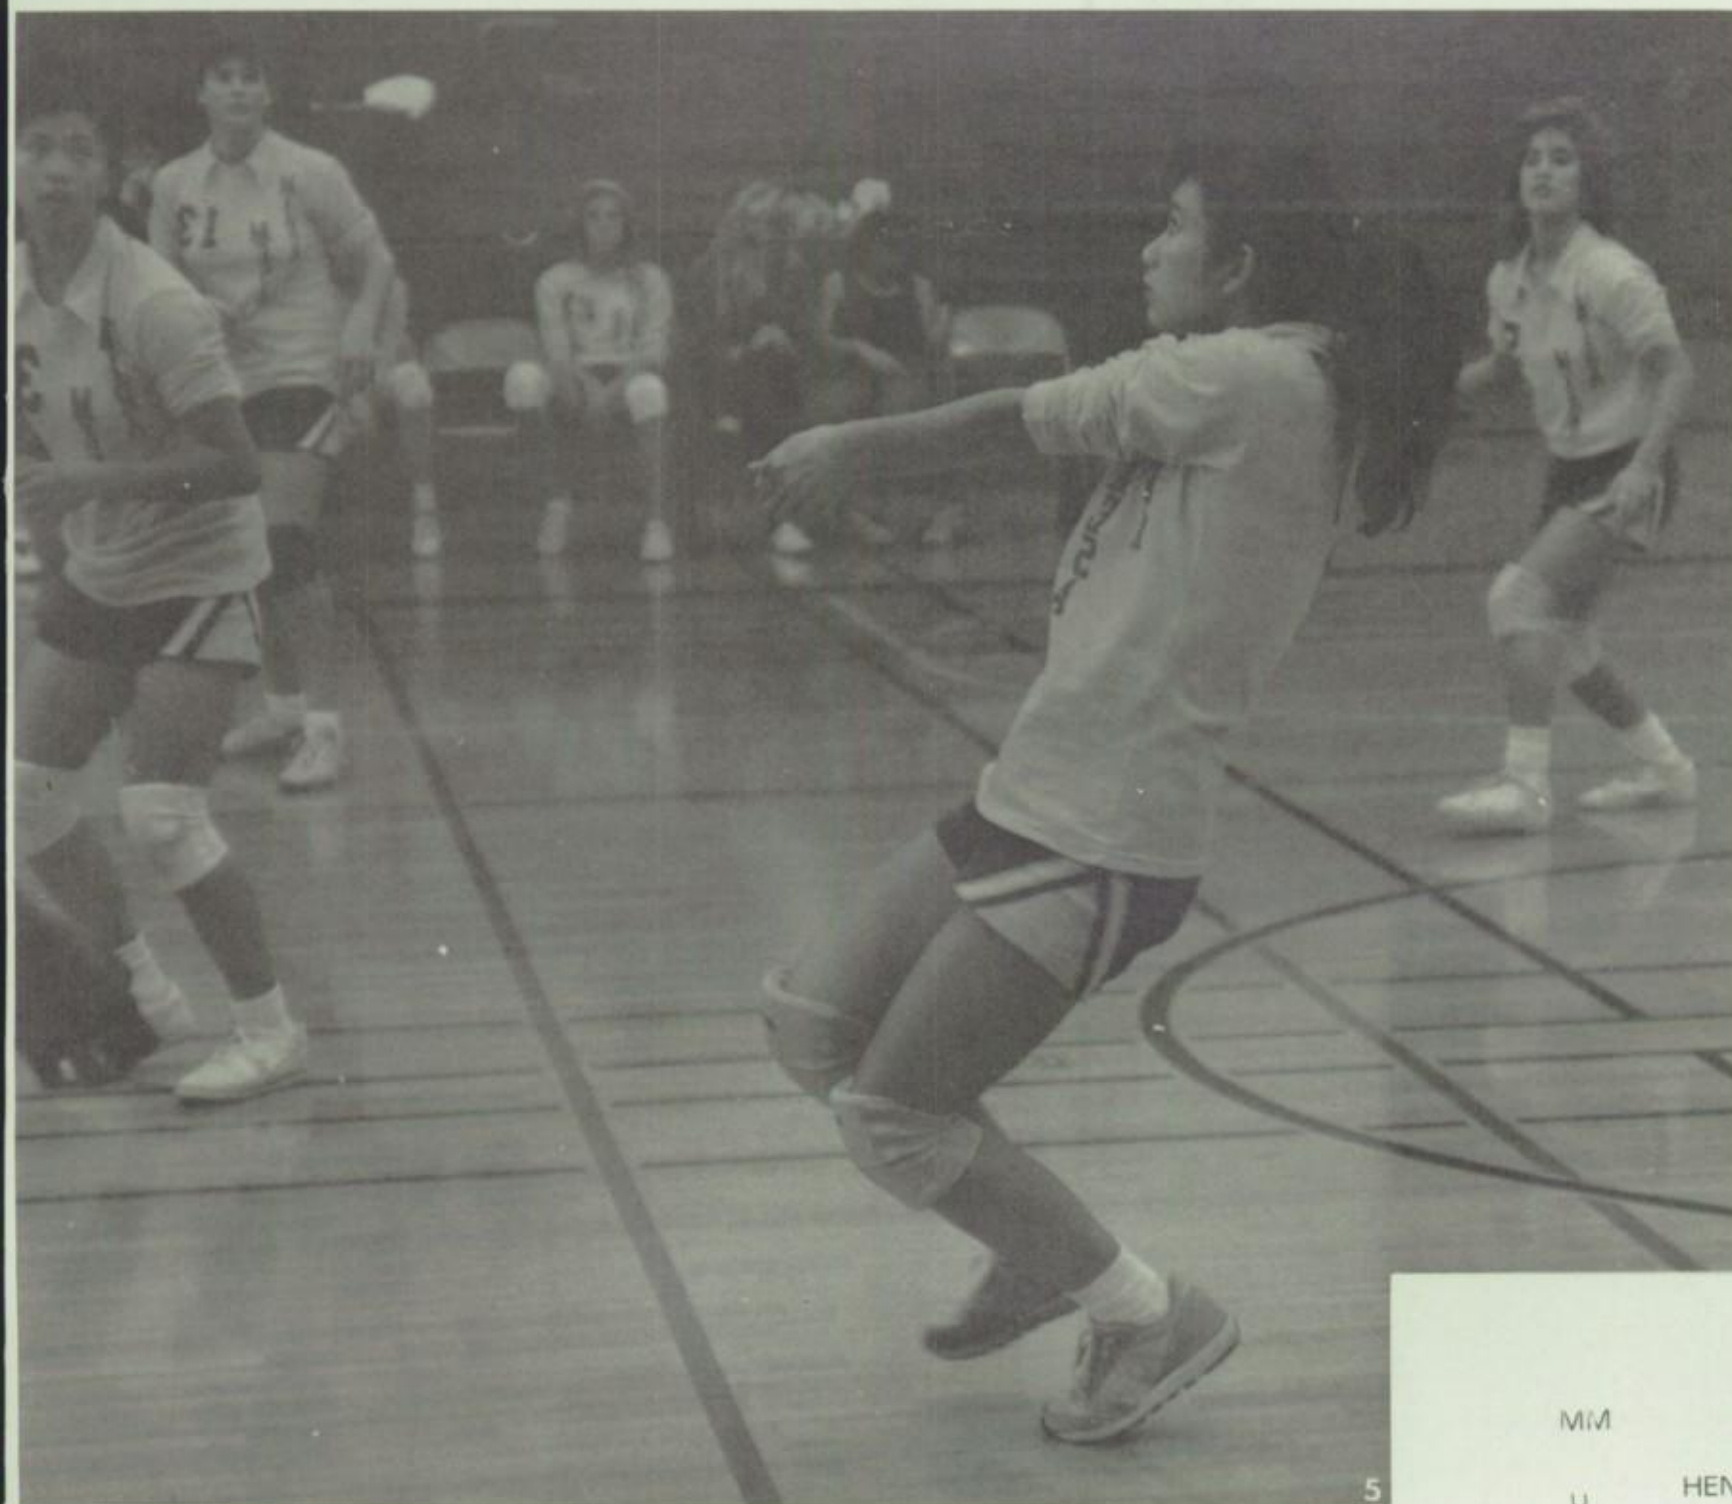

4. Grace Bolano and Leonora Lambert are determined not to let the Tigers score a point.

5. Jocelyn Poblette gets ready to return the ball as Grace Bolano, Candalee Zerr and Carrie Carambus back her up.

With spirit and dedication, the varsity volleyball team completed a not-so-successful season, placing last in their league with a 1-9 record. However, there was a glorious highlight of the season. The Marauders defeated top ranked Madison in a stunning upset. Coach Ronnie Olsen enthusiastically managed the team and helped the players to work together as a team, led the girls as the Most Valuable Player. This year's volleyball team contained several junior standouts including Jenny Moore, Sindy Soper, and Eula McKinney. Coach Olsen attributes the team's poor record to the fact that most players were inexperienced. However, with nine experienced juniors planning to return next year, and only three seniors leaving, the team is expected to "dominate" in 1987.

We are number one. Say we are number one! The Junior Varsity Girls Field Hockey Team "strutted their stuff", as they defeated school after school to win first place in the Eastern League. Coach Jean Palmer made winning easy for the tough junior varsity team. The girls showed that with determination, spirit, teamwork, and aggression, being number one was not impossible. J.V.'s finished the season winning three league games and tying for one. "This is the best we've ever done," said Coach Palmer. For the first time in our ten year history, the MMHS J.V. field hockey team placed first. Key players Piccola Azua (our Spanish exchange student), Brenda Greco, Sara Hallock, and Julie Morgan helped their team climb the ladder of success. The J.V. field hockey team came in for the win!

Wet n Wild

With a combination of speed and power, the waterpolo team made a strong comeback from last year's disappointing season. Finishing in third place and with a 5-5 league record, as well as narrowly missing a CIF wildcard spot by only one vote, the team proved that they were no longer last year's weak squad but a force to be reckoned with. Led by "Man" Jeff Lewis, captain Ed Salanga, and goalie C. Fuge, the team used a devastating offense and a tough, solid defense to win 10 of its 21 games (a 10-11 record, better than last year's 2-12 record). JV Waterpolo had an excellent season as well, finishing second and showing a great deal of potential for next year. As varsity player Matt Bouck put it, "Water polo is a manly sport, and more than a sport. It's a bloody, brutal battle, a battle in which only the strongest, quickest, and smartest survive and are victorious."

Striving to be number one was the extreme goal for the varsity field hockey team. With determination and an overwhelming desire to win, the team experienced the challenge of being the highest ranked field hockey team in MMHS history. Varsity finished fourth place in CIF position ending their season with a 7-3 league record. This was the first time that a MMHS varsity field hockey team has played a second game in CIF. With talented co-captains Minette Ozaki and Anna Mendez, and strong players like Allison Cecil, Janet Wing, and Sheryll Berg, success and victory was easy to achieve. According to Coach Jean Palmer, "Determination, desire, and the refusal to quit," were the victorious qualities of the team. The varsity field hockey team ended their season in stride knowing that they were terrific!

With devastating overhead smashes, incredible backhands, stupendous volleys, and superhuman agility, the varsity girls tennis team reached new heights in the world of tennis. Equally important, the girls looked positively smashing in their tennis uniforms and were the envy of every tennis player in Southern California. Under the expert leadership of captains Mandi Smith and Kristin Block, and Coach Julie Mack, the team had an almost undefeated season, losing only to Patrick Henry (their first loss in 3 years). The squad was co-champion in league play, and sent several players to CIF competition. Although the team was young (less than half were returning varsity) they more than made up for it with spirit, determination, and hard work. Due to their efforts, the girls again continued the legacy of a champion MMHS tennis squad. As Jenn McElliot succinctly summed up the season, "We hit the eastern league with our best shot, and again came out victorious."

Boys JV Basketball Hoops It Up

QUICK, STRONG, HOT!! No, these words do not describe the men from Chippendales (well yes they do, but that's another story). These words describe the fresh young junior varsity basketball team. Teamwork, dedication, and determination blended together to develop the J. V. skills to its maximum overdrive. With new coach Dan Regas, the team became more than a bunch of tall dudes in shorts running up and down a shiny gym floor bouncing basketballs. They were talented guys, who with their magical touch, redefined the game of basketball. They made the game a fun and competitive action sport. Even the J.V. team was young (nine freshmen), they caught on fast, and soon played like pros. Outstanding athletes like Scott Tagaban, Marc Ziegler, and JJ Rowlett helped bring their junior varsity to easy victories.

4. Mark Ziegler attempts to score another point for the Mighty Marauders as his rival tries to catch him.

5. As #44, Shawn Owen, passes the ball to his teammate, the opposing team tries to block the ball.

6. As an opponent from Morse tries to unsuccessfully catch #44, Shawn Owen hoops it up and earns another two points for the Marauder team.

1. Just out of reach...Scott Cummings shoots a basket as Madison players are in the verge of blocking.
2. David Lee shows his skills against University High.
3. Tal Miller scores another winning point for Mira Mesa.
5. Ray Rowe attempts to tip off the ball at the start of the game.
6. Jim Nawrocki takes advantage to score another point for Mira Mesa.

4. The Varsity Boys' Basketball Team consists of: Coach Cunningham, S. Cummings, T. Miller, J. Hagadorn, M. Eicher, C. Shirley, D. Thornton, R. Kebbe, R. Rowe, J. Nawrocki, J. Board, K. Humphrey, S. Smith, D. Lee, R. Dang, A. Sabal, and Manager.

Up In The Air

Reaching the CIF playoffs for the first time in several years, Coach Tim Cunningham's varsity basketball team became one of the most supported and celebrated teams on campus. After setting a school record with eight consecutive victories to start the season, the team finished 18-6, the third best record in school history. Ranked as high as number two during the season, the Marauder team was the Hilltop Tournament Champion and the runner-up at the Kiwanis Tournament.

Guard Dave Lee was honored as a member of the All-league first team, while forward Mike Eicher made the second team. Among the other standout players were sure-handed Scott Cummings, overpowering Ray Rowe, quick-moving Tal Miller, cunning Jim Nawrocki, and agile Remy Dang.

Heading the list of the many memorable events during the 1987 season was Mira Mesa's upset victory over number-one ranked Morse High. In the closing seconds, after a well-played, closely-matched game, hero Scott Cummings lofted an outside shot into the net, dealing Morse their only defeat of the season. In the CIF playoffs, Mira Mesa defeated Valhalla, but lost to Mt. Carmel.

Our golden team's story so far:

The seconds tick quietly off the clock and Debbie Miniham is pressed to make a move. The crowd chants wildly behind her, the shouts of Coach Elliot drowned out by the intense noise. She must act quickly! Detecting an elusive opening, she slyly passes to Akiko Rataj, who, with great effort, slams the ball through the hoop, shattering the backboard, causing glass to fly everywhere.

OK, Akiko didn't break the backboard, but the girls' JV Basketball team was able to successfully work together. Considering that only four players had experience, their 4-6 record was evidence of the team's ability and potential. MVP Debi Miniham felt that "everyone improved a lot and worked together."

Key players Diane Yoo, Stacey Kasimatis, and Betty Townsend helped to make the team a success.

5. "I can't let her keep that ball!" thinks Betty Townsend...soon after, she managed to steal the ball and score a basket for MMHS.

6. Stacey Pitman makes a flying leap to try and dunk the ball while Serra's Alisse Valenza desperately tries to block her.

Girls Varsity Scores More

After a pathetic season a year ago, the Girls' Varsity basketball team was on the rebound, featuring a 13-11 record and a 3rd place finish in the Eastern League. First-year coach Gary Blevins, completely reorganized the team, his efforts resulting in their impressive record and a third place showing at the Coca Cola Classic Tournament. Since nearly all of the standout players will be returning next year, Coach Blevins has strong aspirations for the upcoming season. Among the players who contributed to the success of the team are senior Darla Vaughn, the team's best and most versatile player according to Blevins, junior Eula McKinney and Mary Ellen Moore, and sophomores Leonora Lambert and Carrie Carambas.

The team was especially excited by their game against Pt. Loma. The MiraMesa squad scored more points against the Pointers, who are ranked No. 1 in the state, than any other team in San Diego. Coach Blevins was very pleased with the performance of the 1987 team, especially considering the fact that they nearly made the C.I.F. playoffs.

Arrghhhh! Muscles bulging with incredible effort, the mighty wrestler let loose a violent grunt and, with a heroic heave, tossed his unfortunate opponent into the crowded stands. As he raised his arms in victory, the crowd went wild, for the powerful MMHS JV wrestlers had once again destroyed their opponents. This year's squad was incredibly successful, finishing the season in second place with an excellent 8-1 record. Led by such excellent wrestlers as Ricci Velasquez, Eric Payumo, and Oscar Flores the team threw, pinned, and generally thrashed the opposition all year, earning a reputation as a quick, well-conditioned, and brutally strong squad. With Coach Bakewell instructing the team on wrestling strategies and techniques, as well as putting them through hours of grueling practice, this year's boys transformed from normal students into "lean, mean fighting machines." Due to the excess of strength and talent possessed by the JV squad, hopes are high for next year's season, and crowds can expect some spectacular wrestling victories in 1988.

Tuff Guys

When someone mentions wrestling, most people immediately envisage the savage, merciless Hulk Hogan delivering repeated skull-crushing blows to the 600 pound Death-Beast, who despite the fact that he has received enough beating to kill an elephant, shakes it off and retaliates by jumping on Hulk Hogan's spine for three of four minutes. Either that or two Japanese sumo wrestlers swatting each other with their stomach fat.

In reality, true wrestling such as that practiced by the Mira Mesa Varsity Wrestling Team, is a very civilized and competitive sport. Finishing second in the Eastern League with a 6-1-1 record, the Mira Mesa team sent eight wrestlers to the CIF finals. Among them was sophomore Marc Santamaria, who emerged as the league champion in his weight class. Senior John Medina, junior Todd Coffin, and sophomore Jeff Major each captured second place. Coach Talbott was very satisfied with this season, and has even higher hopes for next season. Nearly the entire varsity team will be returning next year, and the J.V. team holds several valuable prospects.

1. Vinny Lopez satisfies his thirst after a grueling first half.
2. Jeff Rago is distracted by the bouncing cheerleaders during an important game.
3. Bruised and battered, Tim Shepich relaxes in the mud.

Muscular legs tensed in anticipation, eyes alert, probing for an opening in the opponent's defense, the forward crouched, waiting for the pass. Suddenly the ball appeared before him, and he burst into action. Skillfully evading defenders he sprinted downfield, and fired a shot past the goalie. Scenes such as this were common occurrences for this year's boy's varsity soccer team, a team possessing enormous talent and ability. Led by co-captains David Fugate and Richie Baird, the team achieved an excellent 5-2-3 league record, narrowly missing a CIF playoff berth. The team had many strong players, such as Richard Baird, Paul Gelvezon, and Vinny Lopez, but, as Lopez stated, "As a team we couldn't seem to put the talent together on consistent basis." Nevertheless, Marauder soccer had a good season, with a number of hard-fought wins and tense, exciting matches. Richie Baird, the leagues leading scorer, and David Fugate were both named to the All-League first team, and Jeff Lewis, Sean Hikes, and Chris Kline all made second team. Next year's prospects appear to be excellent due to talented returning players including Paul Gelvezon, Chris Kline, and Mike Demko who should help the Marauders kick off into a winning season.

4. The Boys Varsity Soccer Team consists of: (back row) R. Baird, J. Lewis, D. Fugate, M. Demko, A. Bushby, E. Sealy, V. Lopez, (middle row) B. Burns, J. Masculino, T. Kincade, C. Kline, K. Paralyzed with fear, these poor girls merely stood still and quivered desperately thinking of ways to avoid facing their fearful blue and gold adversaries. Who were these terrifying people--vicious, hulking sumo wrestlers? Calf-roping champions? Pro bowlers? NO, these awesome individuals were none other than the magnificent Varsity Girls' Soccer Team.

This year's powerful squad completely devastated its opponents, winning the Eastern League title with an incredible 15-3-1 record. With deft ball-handling, excellent speed, phenomenal teamwork, and incredible endurance (resulting from, according to one player, "literally millions of hours of grueling, backbreaking practice.") these girls once again proved to be a soccer powerhouse. Led by coach Marcelle Benjamin, and team captains Erin Patterson and Jennifer Gee, the mighty Marauder soccer team had an almost perfect season, defeating even league rivals Serra and Pt. Loma, and are expected to do extremely well in the CIF Championships. Losing only four seniors, next year's team promises to carry on the Mira Mesa tradition of a champion girl's soccer squad, and it is rumoured that opposing teams from all over the county are already quaking with dread.

4. A halo of light shines upon Jennifer Swanson as she attempts to kick the soccer ball.

The Mira Mesa Swat Team

For most of the general public, badminton is a leisure recreational activity to be happily enjoyed by people of all ages. But for the MMHS Badminton Team, it's not just a game--it's a way of life. Devoting endless hours to practicing, badminton players lunged their bruised and broken bodies all over the court, making valiant efforts to hit the evasive shuttlecock over the net. Palmer served as the able and knowledgeable coach, sharing her expertise with the large coed team. Among the outstanding players were Piccole Azua, a foreign exchange student who ranked number one in girl's singles and mixed doubles. Huy Nguyen excelled in singles and doubles, as did Ray Huynh and Irene Noble. Many other players contributed to the success of the team, which, according to Coach Palmer had a lot of depth. Finishing in the top four, the team advanced to CIF playoffs.

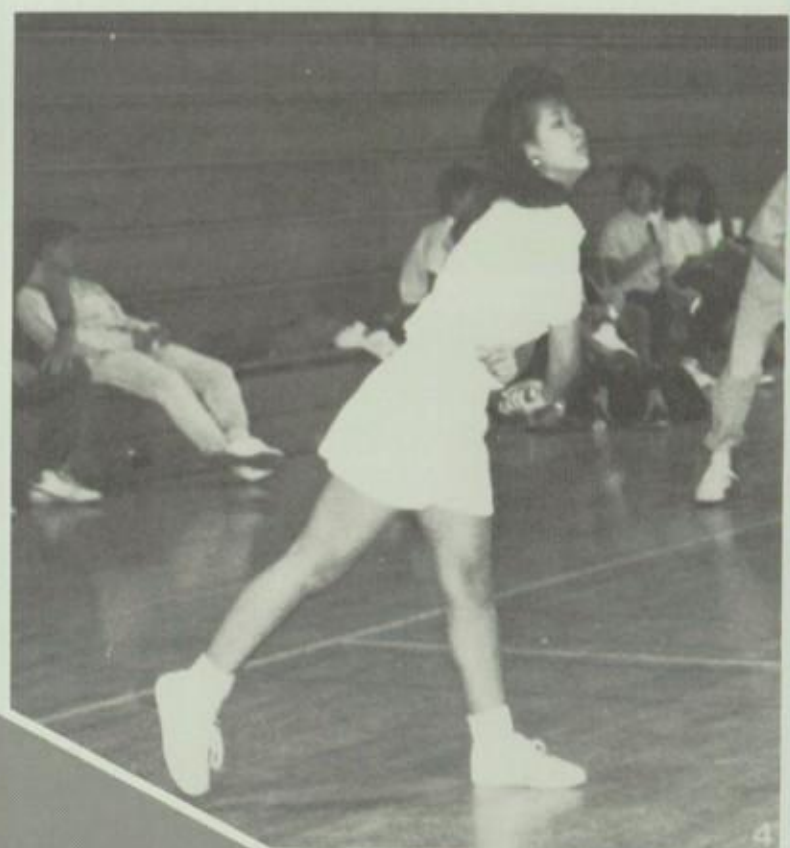

As you may have gathered, badminton is not a game for the weak. It requires perfected skill, agility, and endurance. Said one birdie crusher: "I was going to be a lineman for the varsity football team, but I opted to practice badminton instead because it offered more of a challenge."

1. Audie Sabal smashes the baseball really hard using, by the way, Eddie Salanga's bat.

3. Safe by a mile, Patrick Cheek slides gloriously into third base.

4. Pondering his options, in midair no less, Travis Arnold scans the infield, using, by the way, Eddie Salanga's glove.

5,6,7. Eric Estey demonstrates flawless form in this stop-action pitching sequence.

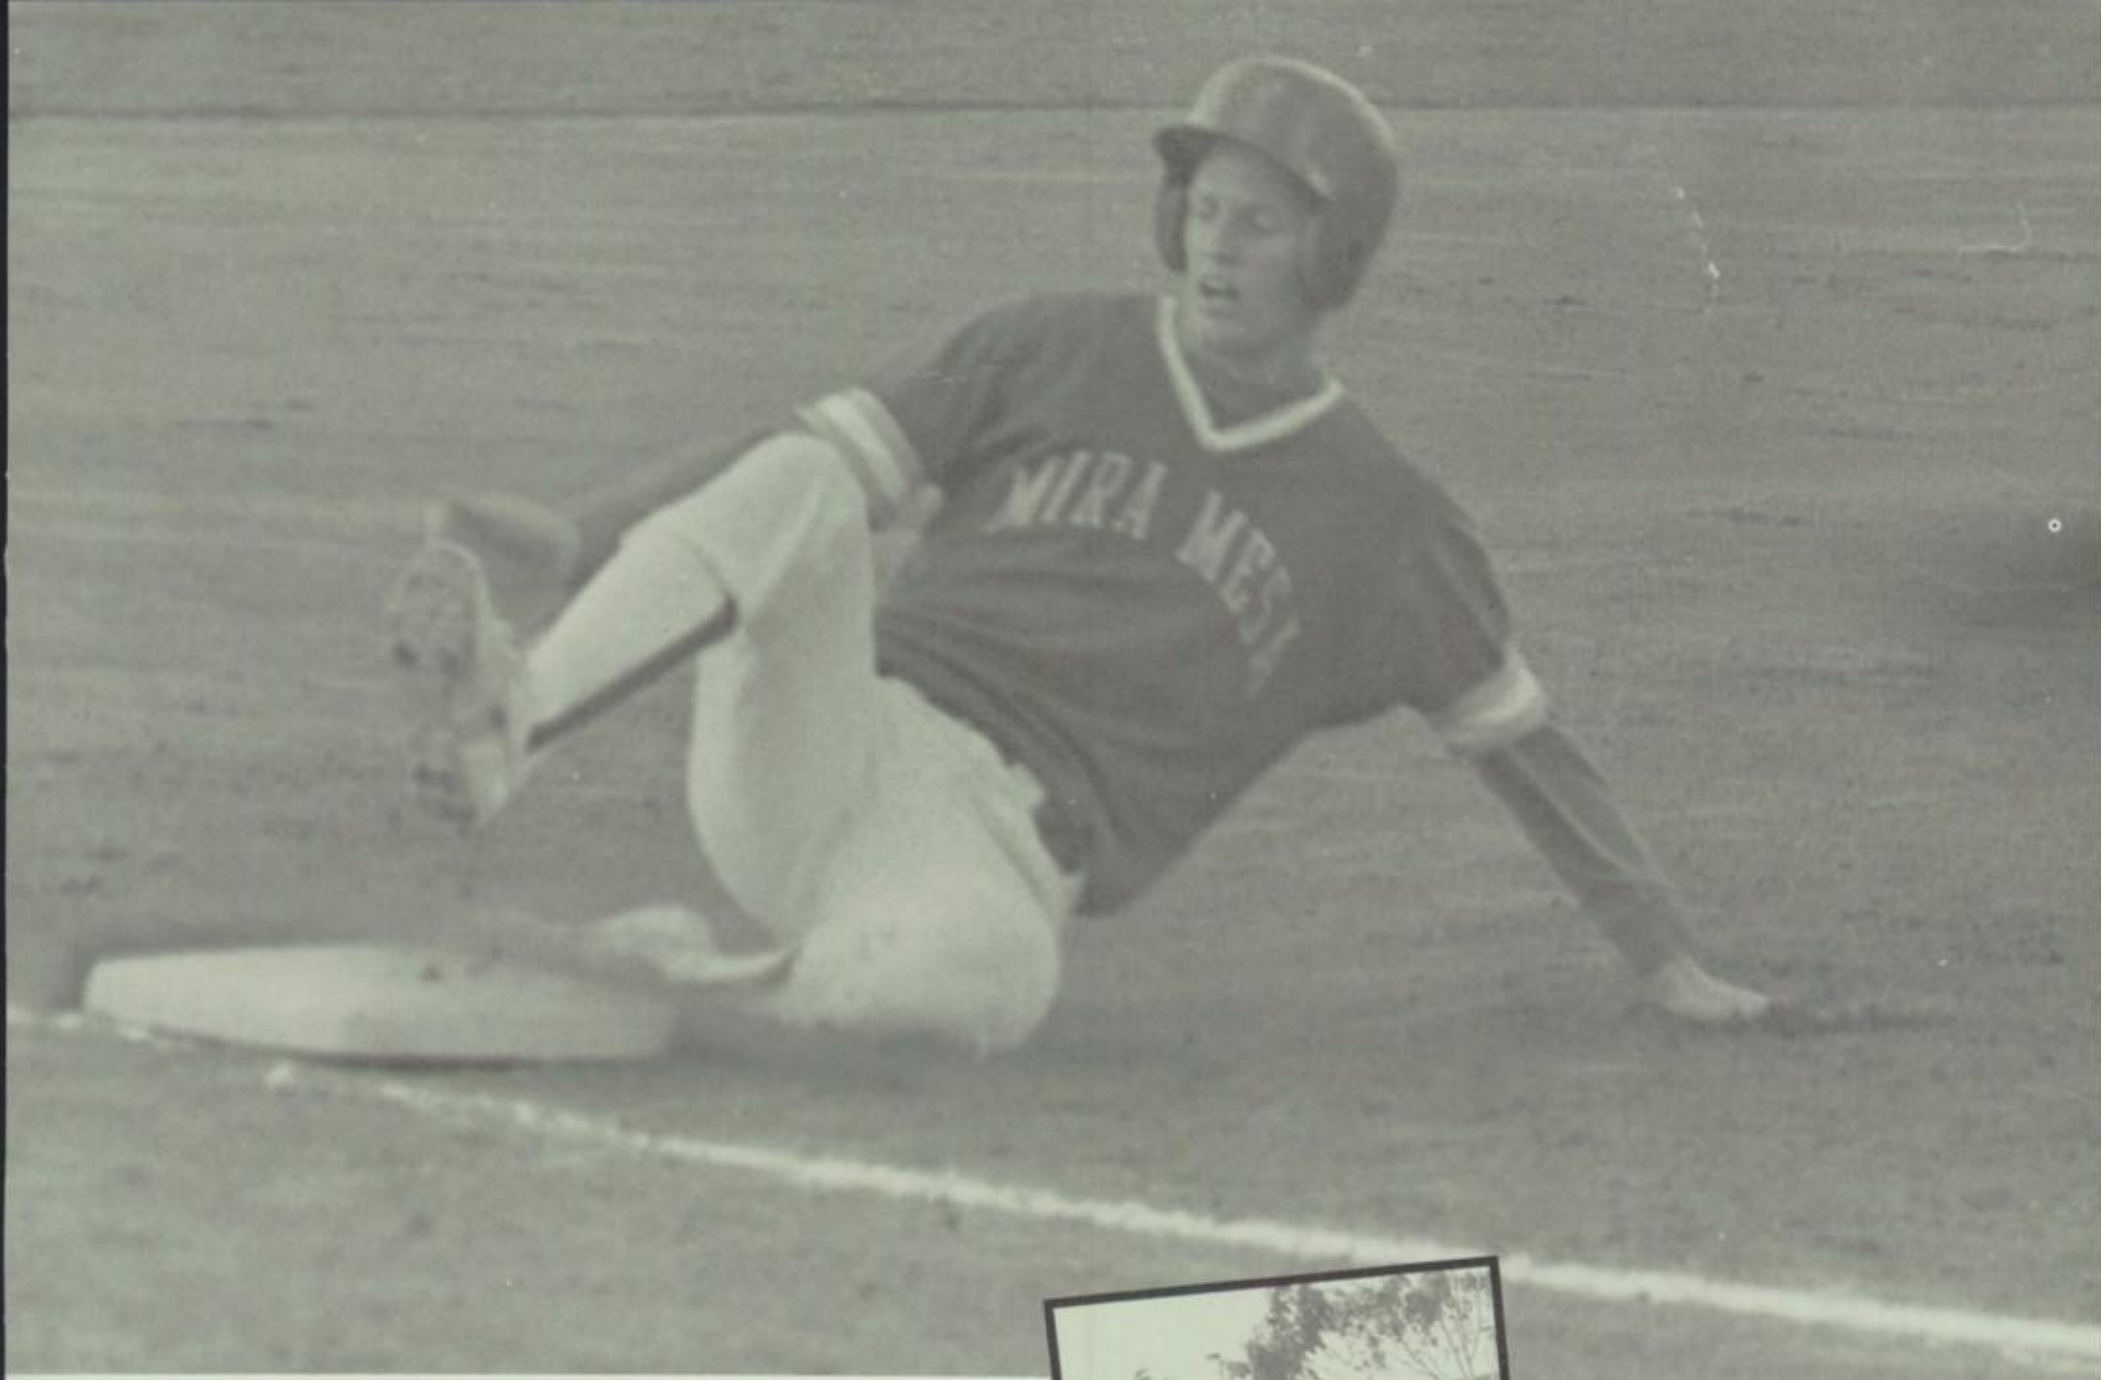

With a deafening crack the curveball struck the bat of the muscular Marauder and was launched into the air--past the outfield, past the fence and into the parking lot. As the batter triumphantly rounded the bases the cheering fans went wild with joy, for their Mira Mesa Varsity Baseball Team had once again been victorious. The other team sat sadly in their dugout, some players sobbing quietly into their mitts while others sat still with shock, for they had been horribly destroyed by the mighty Marauder squad. This victorious scene promises to be a familiar one this season, as the MMHS Varsity Baseball Team appears to be the strongest in many years. With the devastating pitching ability of Mike Eicher and Eric Estey combined with the brutal consistent batting power of Eddie Salanga, Karey Humphrey, and Mike Eicher this team has the ability to strike fear into the hearts of even the bravest opponents. Ranked second in the county by local newspapers, the Marauders seem destined for their third consecutive Eastern League title, and possible C.I.F. glory. Under the expert guidance of Coach Larry Elliot the players have practiced long and hard to reach this level of excellence putting in countless hours to develop natural talents and hone skills to razor-sharp perfection. The road to excellence has not been an easy one, but the Marauders seem to have travelled it well, for as Ed Salanga says, "It's going to be tough, but we'll come out on top!"

J.V. Baseball 87

Hi, I'm Joe Isuzu, and I'm here today to talk about the World Series winners...the Junior Varsity Boy's Baseball Team (he's lying). Former San Diego Padre baseball coach Mike Prosser, and the J.V. team traveled around the U.S. playing against teams like the Dodgers, Mets, and the Royals. (Coach Prosser is really a social studies teacher, and the farthest the team traveled to was to the outskirts of Tijuana.) The J.V. team ran twenty miles each day and they swam fifty laps in various jacuzzis (Don't attempt to do this yourself.) Hot players like Steve Garvey, Tim Flannery, and Goose Gossage brought in run after run. (Get real! It's more like Josh Green, Beau Champoux, Matt Rios, and Joe Minami.) Last year's J.V. team won the Eastern League when they stomped all over the Moscow Mavericks in the Siberian Slush stadium. (If you believe that, you'll believe anything!) The 1987 J.V. team is hoping to also come up winners when they meet head on with the Libyan Lulu's and the Hawaii Bowl stadium. (Why don't you go back to selling Isuzus!) Besides playing baseball, the guys have spent their spare time at polo matches on the shores of Monte Carlo, and gambling in the lush casinos of Las Vegas. (Don't they wish!) Well this is Joe Isuzu saying goodbye for now, I've got to attend a luncheon at Bob's Big Boy, all you can eat for $1.99.

1. John Martin proves that experience in the Barnum and Bailey Flying Circus is helpful in playing shortstop.
2. "Hasta la vista babee..."
3. Is it possible that these young men will become future millionaires of baseball? Nah...
4. Shawn Owen practices the newest Japanese technique in herding goats.
5. Ricky Hastey "She stood you up again?" Coach Burton, "again." Ricky, "What's up with that girl...?"
- 6,7,8., Josh Green is caught in action.

1. Torrey Cababa, Coach Stowe, and Erica McGehee check out the rules with University City before their game.

2. Torrey Cababa attempts to pitch another out.
3. Tammy Hamilton makes it safe to first base.

Hey batter, batter, batter...SWING!!! This is the life of Mary Marauder. Mary has played softball since the tender age of two. (She would have started sooner but unfortunately she couldn't crawl to first base fast enough.) After years of hitting homeruns, catching flyballs, and attending charity benefits with the San Diego Chicken, Mary found herself on the Girl's Marauder Softball Team which was the talk of the town. With standout players like Torrie Cababa, Anna Mendez, Mary Ellen Moore, and Tammy Hamilton, the varsity team 'bat'tled against tough competition like Patrick Henry, and Madison high-schools.

According to Coach Stowe, this was one of the best teams that MMHS has seen due to strong pitching, consistent hitting and quick, aggressive base running. The girls gave it their all by constantly practicing and pushing themselves to their limits. But all the pain and toil was worth it for the 1987 Girls Varsity Softball Team reached heights that no other team has ever reached before!

4. As Derek England shows Paul Berga techniques of golf, Sam Pamoleres tries to show off before them.

With grim determination, Don Laubenthal steps up to the 18th green, driven to sink his final putt and emerge as the hero for Mira Mesa. He carefully surveys the situation, and a quick application of differential calculus reveals the slope of the green as well as the coefficient of friction between the ball and the grass. In the crowd, Don's friends and family cheer wildly, but Don signals for the crowd to hush. Not allowing the tension to affect him, Don sinks the putt, instantly achieving immortality as a great Mira Mesa golf legend.

The preceding scenario exemplifies the exuberant excitement that accompanies each Mira Mesa golf match. The 1987 team featured promising talent, and teed off to an above-par start. Deriving it's talent from standout players Greg Bryant, Patrick Meehan, Randy Smith, Scott McNiell, and of course, our hero Don Laubenthal, the team hoped to send several players to both the CIF Individual Qualifying Tournament, and the CIF Match Play Tournaments. Coach Smith predicts an equally good season next year since six of the top eight golfers will return in 1988.

HOP, SKIP, JUMP... TO WIN

Continuing a tradition of excellence and glory the Girl's Track Team boasted one of the strongest teams ever produced by Mira Mesa. Led by Chuck McIntire and captains Darla Vaughn, Denise McFayden, and Demetra Barr, the team included many valuable players in all events. Hoping to match last year's spot in the state finals, the mile relay team continued to be a dominating force, and included the quick, agile sprinters Darla Vaughn, Michelle Johnson, Leonara Lambert, and Cathy Patacsil. Coach McIntire was impressed by Mira Mesa's standing in the field events, giving special credit to Eula McKinney for breaking the school high jump record. Denise McFayden, and Ingrid Stabb emerged as the top distance runners, consistently placing well in the mile and two-mile races.

According to Ingrid, "Our team is very strong this year, and we have a good chance of winning our league." Hurdler/sprinter Darla Vaughn echoed Ingrid's comment, saying, "The team's success was the result of our dedication and determination." The team started the season with three decisive victories, embarrassing the competition as they swept nearly every event.

Leaping into the air, the MMHS tennis player used all of his skill and strength to smash the ball back into his opponent's court. His exhausted, opponent, weary of playing against this mighty Marauder Tennis super-athlete, was unable to return the shot and lost the match. The tennis fans immediately went wild, cheering and shouting for their once again victorious team. Under the guidance of Coach Tim Cunningham, the team put in long hours of grueling practice each day, building up strength, endurance, and speed, and honing their skills to razor-sharp perfection. Led by superb returning athletes David Fugate, Kenn Kashima, Ed Cruz, and Andrew Vinzon, the Marauder Tennis Team proved to be a force to be reckoned with, a force that struck fear into the hearts of even the bravest opponents. Watching an afternoon practice, with players sweating and straining to perform up to their utmost potential, their determination and dedication showing on their tired faces, it was easy to see why Coach Cunningham was proud of his team, and why all had such high hopes for their success this season. Asked about this season, senior David Fugate came up with the immortal words that, hopefully, should sum up the entire season, "We will win," Fugate said.

1. Senior David Fugate demonstrates his winning backhand to an awestruck audience.
3. Sophomore Ed Cruz shows off a strong forehand to Coach Cunningham.

2. Dawn Schmitt portrays perfect form at the climax of her back dive.
3. Bobby Gabrielson uses his last ounce of energy swimming into the finish.
4. Julie Sefkow, Jenn Heaton, and Karin Horowitz attempt to attract Joe Lifeguard's attention.
5. John Reisig and Scott Schooling team up to show off their school spirit.
6. Jeff Snow feels a little crazy during practice.

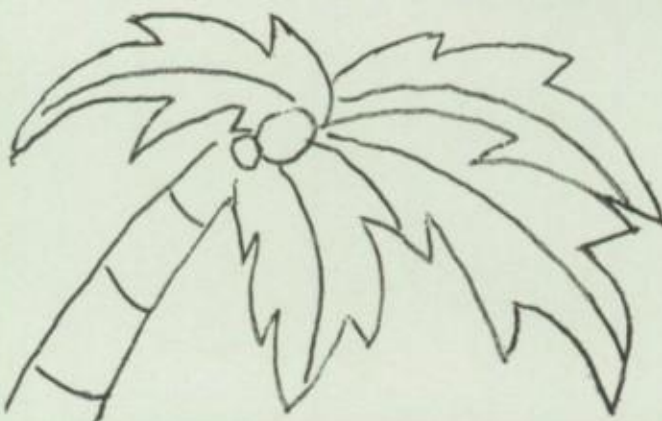

At the shot of the starter's pistol the tanned, muscular swimmer was instantly in motion, skillfully executing a perfect starting dive and smoothly entering the cool blue water. Stroking powerfully toward the finish, the athlete soon outdistanced his opponents and won the race.

This victorious scene promises to be quite common for the MMHS Swim Team, as both the Boy's and Girl's teams appear to be the strongest in years. The coaching skills of Head Coach Dick Clem and assistant coaches Chris Gibson and Charlene Payne, combined with the hard work and dedication of the swimmers has created a well-rounded team of strong, fast, and enduring swimmers, able to compete and win in all events. The boy's team was greatly strengthened by the addition of several speedy underclassmen, including Mike Kolarov, Jeff Snow, and Bobby Gabrielson, who complemented the returners, Carl Ervin, Jeff Lewis, and Hooch Scherl. The Girl's team standout swimmers include Jenn McElliott, Tami Selbrede, and Cindy Hallock, all fast versatile athletes. Perhaps the most valuable addition to the team is freshman Mike Picotte, a phenomenal swimmer who has already broken a majority of school records. The team practiced long and hard all year to reach their goal of an Eastern League title, putting in countless hours of swimming as well as daily early-morning weightlifting sessions. The result of all of this work and dedication was the creation of a magnificent team of "lean, mean, swimming machines" that struck fear into the hearts of all opponents. The mighty Marauder swim team led by co-captains Jenn McElliott, and Dave Geary, was a spirited bunch of athletes, devoted to the sport and willing to put in the extra-effort needed to be champions. The path to the championship would not be an easy one, but the swimmers were confident. As Jeff Snow put it, "Anyone who swims against us is a dead puppy!"

Yet even Bill could not participate in all of the organizations of MMHS, for there were just too many! Whether you liked to see a planet, speak a speech, hike around, wave a flag, yell a cheer, or debate an issue, Mira Mesa had the club for you. Literally thousands of clubs could be found on the campus, giving students a wide variety to choose from. Whatever students participated in, it was clear that one goal stood clear in their minds—a good time. Organizations proved to be some of the most enjoyable aspects of the school year, and served to make school a little more interesting, and a lot more fun.

Leader Of The Pack

Dedication, determination, and the desire to be leaders were the qualities that made up the 1986-87 ASB. With the supervision of advisor Kim Coody, ASB worked hard during the summer and the school year planning and carrying out fun and exciting activities involving the entire student body. President Judy Mercado, elected, and appointed officers, strived toward the goal of making Mira Mesa High School the most spirited high school in San Diego. Student participation in fundraisers, Homecoming, the ASB Ball, lunch-time activities, and spirit week made the ASB huge successes, due to their hard work. The ASB budget grew steadily throughout the year with money from the Student Store, Coke machines, dances, ASB card sales, accounts, locks for lockers, and a small percentage of GATE money for football and basketball games. The ASB worked hard to make sure that MMHS was the best in the West!

The Bicycling Club consists of: J. Yates, J. Spangler, M. Runyon, E. Swanson, S. Lomax, L. Trent, and M. Edelhauser, and advisor, J. Orendorff.

Amateur Radio Club consists of: M. Payumo, J. Benedito, J. Lanuza, C. Lee, G. Maroney, R. Lee, J. Soper, and R. Kallins.

Lot's Of Fun

To seek out new adventures, enjoy the wonders of nature's wilderness, to boldly go where no man has ever gone before—these were the driving purposes behind the MMHS Backpacking Club. Led by Mr. Andy Martinez, this year's club was a spirited bunch, dedicated to the pursuit of fun and backpacking excellence. Through backpacking, the students put their physical and mental capabilities to the test, and in return enjoyed a great deal of fun and personal satisfaction.

The Mira Mesa Cycling Club was another organization which demanded the utmost in physical effort. This club was brand new this year, and seemed to be an incredible success. Under the direction of John Orendorff, this group of dedicated biking enthusiasts embarked on many fun and exciting biking adventures. It was always easy to recognize a member of the Bicycling Club, for as Mr. Orendorff so eloquently put it, "We will be in bicycling clothes."

Over the static filled airwaves came the message, "Soviet spacecraft Soyuz IV calling MMHS radio club, come in comrades." The radio club was ecstatic. These wizards of radio technology had contacted a Soviet spacecraft for the ninety-third time this year. Due to the club's efforts at improving U.S.-Soviet relations, the two countries became friends, and lasting world peace was achieved. Actually the radio club did not contact any spaceships (to the best of our knowledge) and did not create peace on earth. But they did, under advisor, Richard Kallings, contact countries from Brazil to Japan and had an enjoyable time doing so.

Mr. Orendorff helps Jeff Spangler with his bicycle before the big ride.

Joshua Soper is extremely careful when contacting the Japanese.

In her unusual state, Mrs. Suzanne Emery relaxes before a deadline.

LEADERS...

Who was caught flashing in front of the media center? WE WANT TO KNOW! What ever happened to Mr. Valassiss' toupee? WE WANT TO KNOW! When did MMHS get angrily rampaged by toilet papering terrorists? WE WANT TO KNOW!

Where do you go if you want to meet members of the opposite sex? WE WANT TO KNOW! If you want to find out about the hottest and latest news happening at MMHS, pick up your latest copy of the Marquee. With the supervision of Mrs. Suzanne Emery and the co-editors Lynn Fredeluces and Jim Huber, the talented Marquee staff was the hottest thing since pink tofu. One of the most exciting organizations covered this year by the Marquee was the Junior Statesman of America. These talented youngsters attended debates, conferences and conventions in order to push politics into student awareness. JSA members were interested in what was going on in the world around them involving politics, decisions, world affairs, and local affairs affecting students. According to President James (Whitey) Hagadorn, JSA consists of "people who have heart and desire, who are not afraid to speak up for what they want. With advisor Bob Durham, JSA attended two major conventions, Fall State and Spring State, held at the Los Angeles Hilton Hotel. Cars were washed and hot dogs and candy bars were sold in order to raise adequate funds for the conventions. The Junior Statesman of America proved to be an incredible organization and one of the most awesome clubs at MMHS.

4. K. Joseph, M. Anoché, L. Arab, R. Lotfi, and A. Stillwell discuss their next project.

Suddenly, the mock trial defendant leapt to his feet. "I'm guilty," he screamed. With this shocking confession, the mock prosecution easily won the mock trial, and the mock defendant was sentenced to die in the mock electric chair for his horrible crime. While the MMHS Mock Trial Team may have faced more realistic cases than this one, the example does show the energy, excitement, and fun of a competition. Under the direction of Harriet Marriner, the Mock Trial Team participated in a number of "courtroom battles" with teams from schools around the county, in an attempt to reach state finals. To be victorious in their competitions, the eighteen members of the team had to study the many aspects of law and courtroom protocol, as well as prepare strong, convincing cases.

To educate the campus about the terrible problem of world hunger, as well as to actually do something to help this situation was the goal of the World Relief Club. Led by advisor Dennis Morgan and president Lila Arab, this little known, and yet very important organization put a great deal of time and effort into teaching about the tragedy of hunger. As a participant in the National World Hunger Drive, the club sent a student representative to a conference on hunger in Washington D.C. and gave their time and effort to actively help world hunger. Perhaps if thousands more of concerned organizations like the World Relief Club existed, then the tragic scenes of starving children, and widespread misery would be ended forever, and the earth would be a far better place for all of us.

United With Spirit

Aiming to promote school spirit and support Mira Mesa's athletic teams, the cheerleaders gave Mira Mesa one of its best seasons ever. Sandi Chong was this year's varsity captain and Cathy Patacsil was the JV captain. Although their presence was most noticeable at football and basketball, the squad supported every sport in some way. The contagiousness of the cheers performed was made evident when the crowds at the games chanted vibrantly along with the cheerleaders. A new mascot, the blue and gold Marauder horse, supplied a new and exciting drive for the cheerleaders, while the male members of the team continued to provide uniqueness and diversity. The squad received much of its publicity at pep rallies, where they instilled school spirit into the cheering and frantic crowd. Exciting fundraisers, such as spirit ribbons, badges, and seat cushion sales, allowed the cheerleaders to continue in their tradition of spirit and enthusiasm.

Two Of A Kind?

They banded together, each possessing a common goal. A goal so lofty that they were mocked and scorned, and became castaways with one obsessive desire: the desire to be a homemaker. They boldly called themselves the Future Homemakers Of America--FHA. No longer an underground alliance, the members of FHA proudly and publicly shared their homemaking skills in areas such as sewing, cooking, and what to do when your toilet won't flush properly. FHA battled other schools in interschool competitions, demonstrating their devotion to the art of homemaking.

An organization which has absolutely nothing to do with FHA but also happens to appear on this page is the varsity club. Led by Mr. Leo Casias, the club was composed of letter-earning athletes, who strove to benefit others who were less fortunate. The varsity club raised money and supplies for areas struck by tragedy. To create a positive social atmosphere, the club embarked on ski trips to Utah and Lake Tahoe. In summary, the varsity club allowed letter-earners to participate in a united force fighting for truth, justice, and the American way...and also to ski Utah!

Can You Feel The Beat?

Blood, sweat, and tears, was endured by the Marching Band and Letterettes. They worked together in harmony, sacrificing time and hard work in order to be the best. With the leadership of advisor Len Wolfe, and assistant drum major Michelle Williams, the band won first and third place in the two field tournaments at Mt. Carmel and San Dieguito. The new drum line placed sixth out of twenty bands in competition, and they are second only to Poway in San Diego County. The Band and the Letterettes practiced twice daily, two hours in the morning and after school to strengthen their skills. The Letterettes competed in their very first competition, and marched off with an impressive third place win. This was the first time that the Letterettes competed against other schools. "I was ten feet off the ground!", exclaimed Len Wolfe. The Band and Letterettes marched away with impressive victories, proudly displaying true Marauder spirit.

Intelligence At Work

Guided by their fearless leader Louis Regas, the California Scholastic Federation conquered another successful year, distributing those precious CSF membership cards to nearly one hundred Marauders. A quick flash of this coveted card signaled to more lowly Marauders that the bearer held at least a 3.5 GPA, and was eligible to participate in the annual trip to Disneyland.

For the more hard-core scholars, there was the Academic Decathlon. A select group of eight Marauders underwent months of rigorous training in order to compete in an all-out, six hour testing battle with forty-five other high schools. The topics ranged from the fine arts to astronomy to a speech on the U.S. constitution. With dedication and enthusiasm, Frank Graham-Caso coached the team members to a respectable place in the standings. The team dominated the interview category of the decathlon, with individual awards going to Jennifer Desmond for first place, and Kristi VandeWark for a close second. In all, organizations such as these supplied academically-inclined Marauders with a great way to get involved in school activities, and associate with their peers.

Marching With Pride.

In a flurry of flags, boots, hats, and tiny skirts the Flag and Drill teams brought a great deal of excitement and spirit to MMHS this year. Under the direction of advisor Ms. DePaul and captain Danielle Oakry, the Flag team awed the crowds at athletic events and competitions with their incredible displays of difficult flag maneuvers. The Drill team was definitely a favorite of the spectators as well, leaving many a crowd silent and breathless after a stunning routine. It took a lot of practice and hard work, combined with the guidance of Captain Arlette Ecija and Ms. DePaul, to create and perfect the wondrous synchronized moves of the team, but it was definitely worth it. In the prestigious Mt. Carmel competition, both the Flag and Drill teams won first place. In addition, the Drill team took second place in the Columbus Day Parade. Throughout the year, watching the Drill team was a popular pastime of many Marauders at football games themselves were totally ignored in favour of the girls. As the Happy Marauder Matt Bouck remarked after one football game, "I don't have any idea of what the score was, but the Drill and Flag teams were GREAT!"

Mind Over Money

In its eleventh year of budgets and hard work, School Site Council (SSC) was moving along stronger than ever. SSC, a committee consisting of enthusiastic students, parents, and staff members, worked to improve the school through a state grant of over $250,000. Though this grant was threatened to be cut off due to changes in the governor's budget, the council managed to pay for computers as well as other educational necessities. Advisor Kim Coody and President Craig Secord helped lead the council in the distribution of funds for various school functions.

What function would be most ideal for the academically excellent student? The National Honor Society (NHS) was the top choice for wizards of knowledge. Before being accepted into NHS, however, a candidate had to fill out an extensive application which illustrated his or her top notch grades, active participation in extra-curricular activities, and desire to succeed in life. With the leadership of advisor Ted Parent and President Jill Cattel, the NHS used their exceptional knowledge not only for themselves, but for the benefit of Mira Mesa High and the entire local community, as well.

HIGH NOTES

People in drama are not your basic Joe Six-Packs. They are a unique, motivated, talented group of aspiring actors and actresses. They are part of the select few who have fully grasped the concept of character, the concept of entering the mind of another person. They have utilized their talent well, creating one of the most popular and publicized organizations on campus. This year, the Drama Club produced, designed, and acted in three main stage performances under the expert supervision of Mr. Dan Regas. "Grease" was a smahing, as was "The Dining Room" and the ever-popular "West Side Story." Drama members also had the opportunity to act in local haunted houses. Boasting 100 members, the Drama Club produced professional plays at the high school level, and the entire school was able to enjoy the results of their dedication and talent.

Surprisingly, the Madrigals shared several similarities with Drama. Both dealt with singing, and all the letters in the word "drama" can be found in "madrigals." Along with the regular choir, over 100 students were involved in MMHS's choral music program. Choir and madrigals produced several outstanding performances, including a Christmas concert, and added an element of cultural diversity to Mira Mesa High.

Mira Mesa students associated themselves with numerous foreign countries, and various clubs allowed these students to promote their nationalities. Led by Ms. Lopez, the International Club was an association of international students who basically did international things. They sold international grams and sponsored the International Faire in order to promote an international atmosphere around the school.

Another club that promoted international awareness was the Spanish Club, an organization which consisted of Elaine Bennett and her A.P. Spanish class. They strived to promote the Spanish culture, and also to halt the devaluation of the peso.

A final program involved foreign exchange students from various worldwide countries, including Germany, France, Austria, and Spain.

Shooting Stars

Once upon a time in the Stone Age, a hairy caveman spoke his first words to another hairy caveman. Thus, the art of communication was born. Communication has since played an important role in two of MMHS's popular and successful organizations—the Speech Team and T.V. Productions. The Speech Team is quite like the caveman, in that they both believe that "Speech is Power". Led by the dynamic award winning speaker Arthur Root and Coach Harriet Marriner, the team had a successful season. In competitions, the team consistently placed in the top three spots. With the number of strong new members, the team consistently placed in the top three spots.

The T.V. Productions crew also believed in the necessity of communicating through video. This was the organization that brought you the wonderful 'Mira Mesa Update'. President Brian White and advisor Bill Male coordinated the efforts. To achieve greatness on the T.V. screen was the foremost wish of T.V. Productions, a wish that, through hard work and a little help from the T.V. Fairy, came true this year.

1. The Speech Team consists of: Don Ambalada, Leilani Anquillano, Lila Arab, Eilynn Biscocho, Christene Campbell, Jeff Contreras, Ed Gawaran, Gigi Gemenez, Jackie Jarvis, Jay Massey, Judy Mercado, Vicky Nguyen, Ty Owen, Art Root, George Rosello, Arvin Saluta, Carolina San Juan, Laura Toller, Thao Vu, and Coach Harriet Marriner.

Service That Counts!

To spread goodwill and cheer, to help their school and community, to bring happiness and joy to even the bleakest, most depressing life, --these were the goals of several organizations at MMHS.

The Agape Club, under the direction of advisor Howard Nordeen and president Andrew Vinzon, was dedicated to caring service for their school and community. Agape is Greek for "unconditional love," and this was the feeling that club members tried to convey in all that they did. With such activities as Christmas caroling, taking trips to orphanages in Mexico, and singing in nursing homes, the Agape Club succeeded quite well in spreading their message of love and caring.

The "S" Club was another organization that wholeheartedly devoted itself to serving their school and community. President Debbie Lou, V.P. Clarence Deperalta, and advisor Jewel Poole coordinated the groups efforts in helping almost everyone. Helping in afterschool programs for elementary school students, assisting the A.S.B. in their activities, contributing to Toys For Tots--the activities of the "S" Club included these and much, much more. Members won awards and had parties for their hours of service, but, more importantly, they received the satisfaction and joy that comes from helping others.

The SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) Club was concerned with educating students against the danger of both alcohol and drugs. Though buttons, keychains, flyers and their "Drug Awareness Week," this club attempted to help their fellow students lead safe, healthy lives. Their concern for their peers was admirable, and they should be commended for their kind and caring work.

3. The SADD Club consists of: J. Beaver, K. Neville, L. LaBerge, J. LaBerge, T. Owen, D. Ambalada, G. Texton, and J. Smythen.

The Yearbook Staff consists of; Top row: J. Henderson, J. Mendez, L. Anquillano, J. McElliott, K. Anderson, D. Geary, T. Aquino, K. Zuercher, J. Deru, E. Allison. Middle Row: J. Velilla, G. Mullen, R. Matthews, D. Padua, P. Aguinaldo, V. Meintjes, J. Timberlake, C. Evans, S. Kashima, M. Esteban, A. Sefkow, J. Pulopot, J. Sefkow, K. Nelson, and Mr. Saunders. Bottom Row: B. Maruszak, J. Grey, P. Ordonez, S. Pulopot, C. Goins, K. Tyner, C. Rosado, and D. Hedrick. NOT PICTURED: Jennifer Gracia, Natalie Woodward.

Vicki Meintjes, Julie Henderson, Carolyn Evans, and Jenette Deru show what yearbook is all about—men.

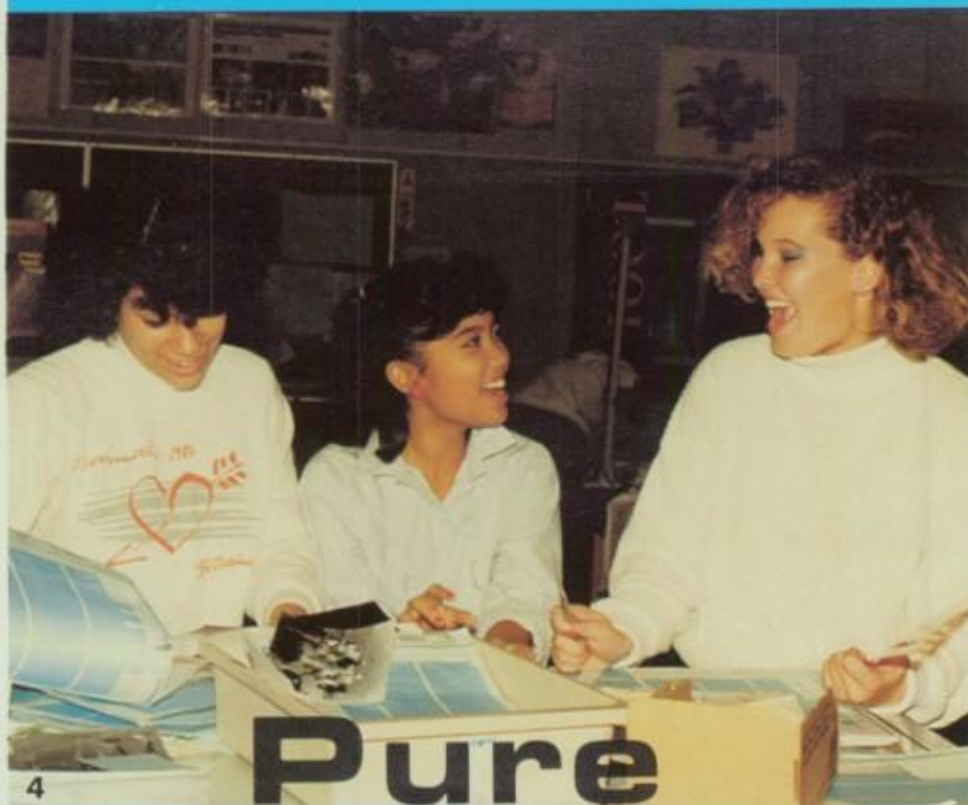

Natalie Woodward and Gisele Mullen exhibit their fine talent of typing.

Pure Pressure Peaks

Yearbook editors are not normal people. They scream, yell, become hyper-active, and experience severe epileptic seizures for no apparent reason. All yearbook editors have a distinct anxious expression on their distorted faces. Three of these mutant poeple exist at MMHS operating under the alleged names of Beca Maruszak, Jackie Pulo-pot, and Katheryn Zuercher. It is surprising that other people have volunteered to serve these wretched people as yearbook staff members, considering the fact that all editors carry lethal weapons which they are very eager to use. Free psychological counseling is given to those afflicted by the wrath of the editors.

In order to inspire the creativity and uniqueness of this year's yearbook staff, advisor Earl Saunders arranged for some interesting provisions. The three copywriters were required to spend eight weeks in the Altai Mountains of Western Mongolia, where they participated in ancient rituals designed to make them at peace with nature and the Buddha. Impressed with the results, Mr. Saunders plans to allow the staff to participate in the event next year. While photographers were in Europe sharpening their photography skills, the layout people helped major worldwide periodicals publish material concerning the staff's latest endeavors. All over the world, people joined hands and sang joyous songs in every language, celebrating and glorifying this wondrous creation and work of art ... The 1987 Mirada.

4. Editors, Beca Maruszak, Jackie Pulo-pot, and Katheryn Zuercher kept their cheerfulness through long, hard deadlines.

5. Copywriters Dave Geary and Andy Sefkow always had a smile on their face, especially since Carolyn Evans was by their side.

6. Julie Sefkow takes time from her layout to smile for the camera.

7. So we're camera happy, exclaims Pam Ordonez, Suzanne Pulo-pot, and Jenn McElliott.

A Time To Say Farewell

In the beginning, a shimmering light appeared upon the desolate canyon of Mira Mesa. From this light, a highschool emerged, destined to be filled with warm bodies. Years flew by, freshmen entered through the doorway of education, while seniors exited through the golden arches of graduation. Throughout the years the school's population built up steadily until 1986-87 when BOOM, an immense overload of Marauders dropped from the sky on to the unsuspecting campus. They came from all over the world to create the Marauder melting pot.

From the start Marauders knew how to have fun. For those interested in sports, cheering, for football, basketball, and many other sports proved to be pleasing. At games, Marauders got the chance to express true blue and gold spirit, and zaniness while rooting for Marauder teams.

Just can't get enough! For students who wanted to show off sizzling moves, engage with members of the opposite sex, and dress to kill, dances like Homecoming, ASB Ball, and Sadie Hawkins made evenings romantic and fun.

Who has spirit? Freshmen, Juniors Sophomores, and Seniors battled it out in lunch-time activities to gain spirit points and respect. With dress up days, contests, and exciting activities, Marauders didn't have to search very far to find spirit.

With the departure of around 750 seniors, no freshmen class next year, and around 30 teachers leaving, MMHS will no longer be cram-packed and overcrowded.

This is not good bye, this is hello. Hello to new friends, hello to good and fun times, and hello to a fresh future. No one will ever forget you Mighty Marauders. YOU'RE JUST TOO MUCH!

As the end of the year approaches, these students say bye to Mira Mesa High...

You Learn

After a while you learn the subtle difference between holding a hand and chaining a soul,

And you learn that love doesn't mean leaning and company doesn't mean security,

And you begin to learn that kisses aren't contracts and presents aren't promises,

And you begin to accept your defeats with your head up and your eyes open, with the grace of a woman, not the grief of a child.

And you learn to build your roads on today because tomorrow's ground is too uncertain for plans, and futures have a way of falling in mid-flight.

After a while you learn that even sunshine can burn if you get too much, so you plant your own garden and decorate your own soil instead of waiting for someone to bring you flowers.

And you learn that you really can endure... That you really are strong and you really do have worth... And you learn and you learn, with every good-bye you learn.

In memory of Justin LeVeau

1. Craig Logan says goodbye as he gets caught mooning a crowd.

2. Aileen Arning, Ray Dively, and Tracy Greenawalt sit around for summer to come.

3. Lisa Nicolaysen, Mark Stogsdill, Tim Kalke, Sam Ward, and Vinny Lopez show us their enthusiasm for being in school.

4. A group of friends say goodbye to the long school year.

Ted Petit and Sean Neil look for a bright future ahead.

Landon Cunningham, Leah Hartness-Stahl, Ingrid Stabb, Brandon Lillard, Cheri Anderson, Craig Logan, Katheryn Zuercher, and Sean Neil show what they want to do after high school.

As the sun sets beyond the dormant stadium, the lonely campus becomes a place of quiet and solitude. A single Marauder feels secure among the familiar classroom buildings and ponders his time spent at Mira Mesa High. A great epoch of his life has passed and he feels a great void within himself. The security and comfort he felt during his high school years has suddenly been destroyed. He wishes he could somehow recapture that lost feeling...

But then, he realizes that his departure from Mira Mesa High is not necessarily an end, but rather, a new beginning. Memories of Mira Mesa will remain with him always, not as something lost, but as something gained--something to be of lifelong value.

He looks ahead to the future, a future filled with promise. He is pursuing a goal, using the momentum gained at Mira Mesa to propel him into the outside world. He will learn the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. His friends, too, will pursue their individual goals, and hopefully they will also find happiness.

And then, feeling fulfilled, the young Marauder turns and leaves the deserted campus. While the sun sinks below the horizon, and the light of dusk grows dim, his heart is lifted and the triumphant fire in his mind burns with strong determination.
